CULLOM KEEN FOR REFORMED TARIFF

Senator Hopes for an Extra Session to Make Changes for the Benefit of the Laboring Men.

MOODY TELLS OF AIMS.

Gives Promise of Aiding Labor to Fullest Extent; Admits Failure Concerning the Eight Hour Law.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Immediately after congress convenes next month Senator Cullom of Illinois will introduce a joint resolution in the senate providing for the appointment of an expert tariff commission to consider and report on those schedules which should be revised.

With a commission, according to the view of the senator, should be absolutely non-partisan and should treat the subject solely in accordance with the needs of the business and labor interests of the country.

In the judgment of Senator Cullom the time has come to eliminate the tariff from politics and to make it what it should be—a practical business proposition. He has no sympathy with the view of the "stand pat-ter" that the tariff is like an endless chain and that the modification of one schedule necessitates the remodeling of the entire system.

What he wants is a law which will enable a change in a particular schedule, either increase or decrease, as the interests of workingmen require.

Wants Action Taken Soon.

Senator Cullom feels that if any action at all is had on the tariff it should be taken long before a presidential election, and thus eliminate the subject from a political campaign. He suggested yesterday the advisability of President Roosevelt calling an extra session next spring. When the president returns from Panama Senator Cullom probably will talk to him along this line.

It has been a mistake of the republican party, according to what the senator said today, to revise the tariff immediately before an election. In the case of the Dingley law, he argued, this resulted in a democratic victory, though it subsequently aided in McKinley's reelection.

President Roosevelt has in mind, as stated by THE TRIBUNE, the advisability of treating the tariff in his annual message, to be submitted at the next session of congress, but the arguments of Senator Cullom may cause him to determine to discuss it in a special message at an extra session.

If this should not be done, then the senator is of opinion it would be desirable to have an expert commission, much like that which has been sent to Germany, to consider the tariff carefully, receive the views of manufacturers and others, including the people, and submit a full and complete report to congress.

Will Modify German Tariffs.

The commission which will meet a German commission in Berlin in a few days will go over the tariffs of the two countries and determine what provisions should be modified to promote trade. Of course, any action on the recommendations of this joint commission must be administrative, as the reichstag and congress must be consulted before changes can be made in the schedules.

The idea of a commission to revise United States tariffs was advanced at the last session of congress, but no practical step towards its appointment was taken. It was then suggested that a joint committee of the two houses sit during the recess and report a bill as soon as congress convened. But this would make the matter political, and that is what Senator Cullom wants to avoid.

"I feel the tariff should not be a subject of partisan politics," declared the senator, "but should be treated purely in the interest of the laboring people."

It is this argument to make the tariff protect the workingman that will augment the popularity of the revision. Of course, in connection with this protection, it is important to see that the destruction of American factories be prevented through too serious competition with foreign products, as that would injure labor. This naturally will result in the continuance of protection to manufactures. There is no question that this aspect of the question will appeal directly to the president, who contemplates important reforms in the interest of labor.

Judges' Decisions Too Radical.

The general nature of these reforms already has been outlined, but it developed today, in connection with the anti-injunction decision, that President Roosevelt will go further in his message than had been anticipated.

It appears that certain decisions of judges in Chicago and elsewhere going so far as to prohibit strikers from using persuasion to induce their comrades to quit work have been laid before the president and he has declared there must be a modification of the law so as not to permit a denial of the constitutional right of free speech.

If appeals to the Supreme court were taken from the decisions noted above there is not the slightest doubt, in the opinion of the president and Attorney General Moody, that they would be annulled. But no such appeal has been made. So, to prevent further defiance of the same kind, President Roosevelt proposes to make a recommendation regarding a new injunction law, which will be far broader than that now on the statute books and insure justice to laboring people.

Moody Fighting Labor's Battles.

Attorney General Moody is enforcing the laws relating to labor in as vigorous a manner as he is those against illegal corporations. A couple of days ago he took action in an important case by sending Special Assistant Attorney General Harr to Kentucky to intervene in defense of the constitutionality of the national arbitration act.

This act contains a provision making it an offense for any common carrier to dismiss its employes because of membership in a labor union or as a condition of employment to exact a promise from a person not to join a labor union. The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has been trying to organize the Louisville and Nashville railroad men. The company is said to be discharging employes joining the union or obtaining promises not to take out membership from men given work.

Several suits were brought against the road for violation of the provisions of the act. Federal Judge Evans has declared its important feature to be unconstitutional.

Mr. Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor, brought the matter to the attention of Attor-

THEATER TRUSTS IN GIANT COMBINE

Work Well Under Way to Get All Houses but Shuberts' Under One Absolute Control.

"LEGIT" AND VARIETY.

"Greater Octopus" Proposes to Save a Few Millions a Year in Salaries and Expenses.

The most gigantic theatrical trust in the world, of which the biggest syndicate now in existence will be but a part, is in the process of formation in Chicago. The new combination is to include 350 of the most important theaters in the United States, will be represented in every city from New York to San Francisco and from Portland to New Orleans, will dictate matters of bookings, tours of all big companies, and, in a word, be the theatrical business of the United States, if not the world.

The combine intends to control without reserve the men who make costumes and concerns which build scenery for all plays. It intends to make play writers paid servants, who will either accept the prices offered them or else go into some other business.

Although the combination still is in the process of formation, the following interests are slated as those to go into it:

Klaw & Erlanger.
Daniel Frohman.
Charles Frohman.
Al Hayman.
Nixon & Zimmerman.
Rich & Harris.
Orpheon circuit.

Chicago Houses of the Combine.

As far as Chicago is concerned, for the present, this will mean merely the combination of the two "trusts" now doing business in the city. It will mean that the "legit trust" will combine with the vaudeville "trust." The theaters thus affected, should the corporations named finally go into it, are the Colonial, Powers' and the Illinois of the first named combination, and the Majestic, Olympic, and the Haymarket of the vaudeville.

It is estimated by some of the managers who expect to go into the new combination that the properties controlled by the corporation will value far in excess of $50,000,000, and possibly $75,000,000. According to present plans a new corporation will be formed, probably under the laws of Illinois. Its capital stock will be placed somewhere between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000. The owners of the theaters will be given blocks of stock according to the value of the properties "contributed" to the general roundup.

Hitch About the Price.

And it is right there a hitch has occurred that has balked the most enthusiastic promoters of the plan. It was nearly six months ago that the idea of forming a combination of all of the big interests in the country first was broached in New York and Boston. The Frohman people are said to have been the first to agree to the proposition. The matter ran along smoothly for some time. The Klaw & Erlanger people are said to have engaged the services of Levy Mayer to represent them in the windup of affairs under the old trust and assist them into the new under favorable conditions.

But the plans were not destined to run along so smoothly. One of the biggest interests in the proposed merger is said to have stood back for a higher price—a bigger block of stock in the new corporation. It was said yesterday that this objector was Klaw & Erlanger. For four months the work of endeavoring to bring all parties together has been going on and it is not yet completed. It is even said that there is still a possibility of all falling through because of a persistent effort of some to "shave" the weaker interests in the final organization.

"Al" Hayman the Originator.

Al Hayman, at present the president of the theatrical "trust," is credited with being the originator of the colossal venture. This seems strange to many outside managers who remember his threat to withdraw from the old syndicate five years ago. It really is an outgrowth of the difficulties that he had with the other syndicate managers at that time, however, that the present combination has resulted.

The agreement under which the members of the old syndicate now are working comes to an end in a few weeks—some time before Jan. 1—and the plans now under way must be crystallized within a short time or the theatrical business once more will be made up of only independent managers.

Shuberts Not in the Deal.

The only big concern that will not be a part of the new "trust" as now planned will be the Sam S. and Lee Shubert houses. The Shuberts already occupy the anomalous position of being an independent trust. When they fell out with the old syndicate in New York early in 1901 the Shuberts declared that they would fight the combination on its own ground. They have done so, apparently, so successfully that the new organization refuses to make any advances to them in working out the new "trust."

"The Shuberts have as much chance of getting in with us as a camel has of passing through a needle's eye—to twist a biblical quotation," said one of the leading lights of the proposed "trust" in discussing the matter in the evening. "You can bank on it that we're agin' 'em, and will remain so."

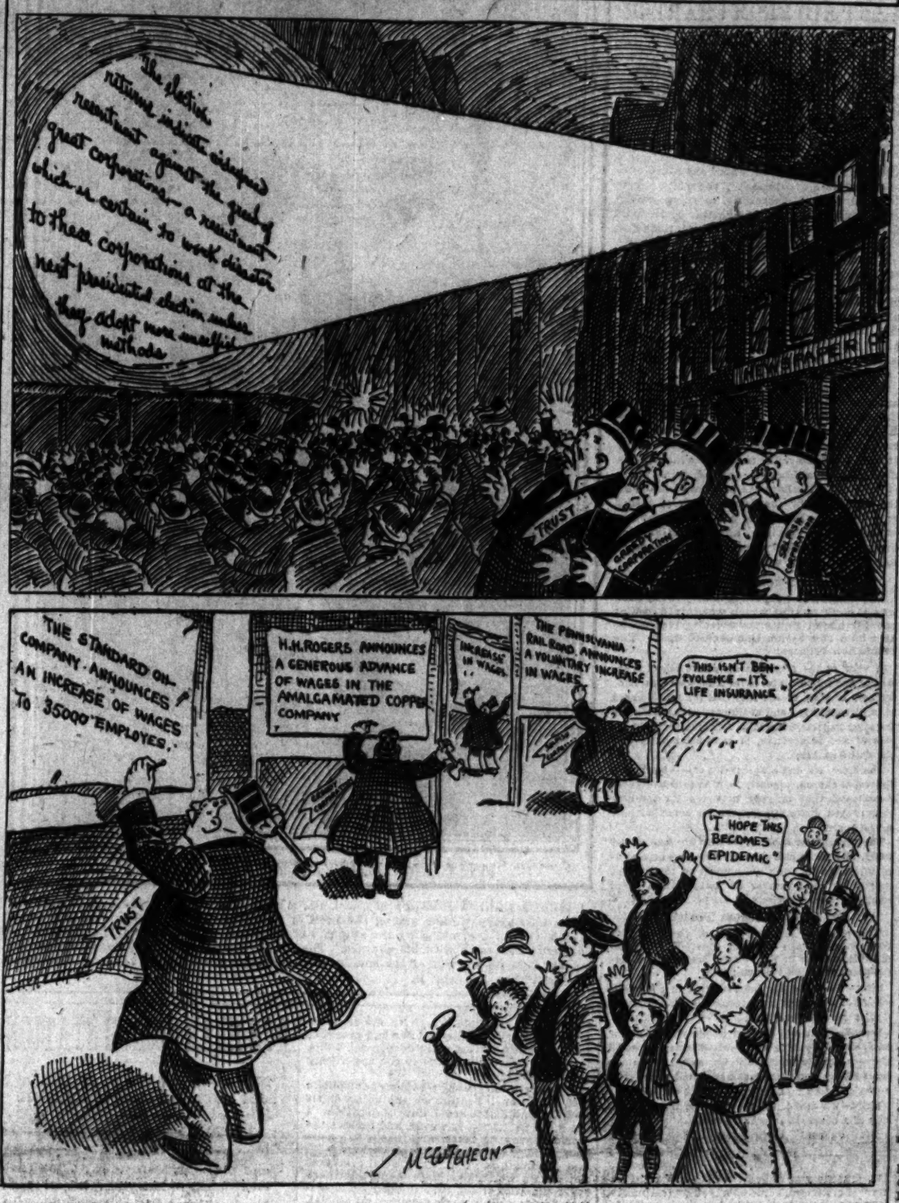
Although it is expected that the only Chicago theaters to go into the new combine will be the six named, the backers of the big organization hope eventually to get every theater in the downtown district into it, leaving the Shubert house—the Garrick—to fight its battles alone.

Effect on the Public.

The effect on the general public of all these changes is not made clear. One of the managers who was reached by THE TRIBUNE yesterday said that there would be no changes of any kind made in the prices of seats. The public would benefit, he declared, in better attractions that would be staged at no additional cost to the theater patron. This would be made possible, he said, by the saving resulting from the combination.

"It is quite plain that we can run all of the important theaters in the United States at considerably less expenses than we could run them if they were carried on by different managements," he said. "We have figured up, in a rough sort of way, that there will be a net saving of at least $3,000,000 by the combination. Where does this saving come in? Why, in the salaries of managers, theater superintendents, advertising—which can be done at much lower expense when done in the lots that we will do it—printing, and minor matters.

THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL.



FOIL ELOPERS; FIND ROMANCE

Porter, Ind., Girl and Her Coachman Suitor Separated at Hotel.

MAN'S IDENTITY A PUZZLE.

Believed to Be Rich Dane Who Posed as Menial to Win Bride.

Emma Bachman Howe, who eloped with Gustave Christianson, her coachman, and for whose return unmarried a reward of $500 was offered, was found in Hobart, Ind., early yesterday and returned to the home of her foster mother, Miss Frances Howe, at Porter, Ind., yesterday afternoon.

Christianson followed the girl to her home and made several attempts to elude the vigilance of her relatives and carry her away again.

Miss Howe's elopement, in which a twenty mile buggy chase figured, was the last chapter in a story of romantic courtship. Miss Frances Howe and friends of her ward are convinced that the young coachman with whom she eloped is a Danish student of aristocratic connection the girl met while studying at the University of Christania four years ago. It is believed that Christianson followed her to America to press his suit and worked as a coachman to be near the girl and keep his identity concealed.

Engaged to Belgian Officer Once.

Miss Howe traveled and studied extensively in Europe under her foster mother's care, and she went to Norway in May, 1902, soon after the announcement of her engagement to a Belgian military officer named Albert Graaf had been given out. The elder Miss Howe remained in Brussels while her ward spent three months at Christiania studying music. In her letters to her foster mother she spoke often of a handsome and gallant Danish student who took her to the musicals. Almost immediately after her return to Brussels her engagement with Graaf was broken. No explanation was given, and the girl and her foster mother returned the following fall to America.

Letters came often from across the seas to the secluded country house among the sand dunes, where Miss Howe lived almost the life of an ascetic with her foster mother. The tall young Dane had told her that some time he would come for when he had taken his degree. Two years ago the letters ceased to come.

Last spring Miss Howe engaged a new coachman. He had come straight from Denmark and could speak no English. Miss Howe had complained of her health and rarely went out, but during the summer she was constantly driven about by Gustave, the new coachman, sometimes in a trap and sometimes accompanied by him when she rode on horseback. She began to teach him to read and speak English, and a summer house was rebuilt for a study room.

Coachman Suitor in Disguise.

Lessons were laboriously gone through under the tutelage of Miss Howe and her foster mother, and Gustave showed himself an apt pupil. One day the elder Miss Howe entered the summer house and saw him writing fluently in Norwegian.

"I thought you couldn't write at all," she said.

"O, I write some in my own language and in Norwegian," he replied.

Another day Miss Howe entered the room and found him poring over a volume of Windel Bond's Philosophy translated into Norwegian.

Miss Frances Howe is the last surviving member of a pioneer Indiana family and has been associated in business and social affairs with well known Chicagoans.

She is said by her friends in Indiana to be part owner of land under the Hub store. It is also stated there that her foster mother long sought to make a match between her and the son of a wealthy Chicago real estate owner.

Whether she really has an interest in the Hub property could not be determined last night. The south 123 feet is listed as being owned by the "F. R. Otis estate et al."

Girl Captured in Time.

When the girl and her coachman eloped Saturday evening with Miss Howe's horse and buggy they were traced to Hobart, Ind., and it was there that Marshal Fred Rose of that town found them. Christianson had engaged a room for Miss Howe at the Hobart hotel and had gone back to the livery stable to sleep.

The young woman was spirited away early in the morning by Rose and another policeman and taken home. Christianson appeared at the citadel to carry away his princess, but the gates were closed and the drawbride was up.

"I am sure this man is not the stupid, heavy boor that he pretends to be," said her foster mother, Miss Frances Howe, last night. "I did not know of the Christiania affair until now, but it seems about the only explanation of my daughter's attachment for the man. The only other explanation I can think of is that she has been drugged. There is every indication that such was the case."

OVERLAND TRAIN WRECKED; NUMBER REPORTED KILLED.

Accident on Southern Pacific Road Near San Jose, Cal.—Explosion of Locomotive Adds to Horror.

San Jose, Cal., Nov. 12, 3 a. m.—West bound overland train No. 102 on the Southern Pacific from New Orleans to San Francisco was wrecked near Sargent's station, 87 miles south of San Francisco shortly before midnight.

Three men are reported killed and another blinded by the explosion of the engine.

The depot is burning.

A special train has left San Jose with physicians and nurses.

Premier Bond of Newfoundland Orders Arrest of American Fishermen in Spite of Modus Vivendi.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Nov. 11.—There is consternation among American fishermen over the announcement that Sir Robert Bond, the Newfoundland premier, has taken the law into his own hands, despite the modus vivendi arranged some time ago between England and the United States, and has ordered the arrest of American fishermen for violating the bait act, an ordinance of the Newfoundland government.

WIDOW OF REVOLUTION DIES.

Last Surviving Woman Whose Husband Served in War of Independence Closes Life in Vermont.

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Esther Sumner Damon, the last surviving widow of a soldier of the revolutionary war, died at her home in Plymouth union at the age of 93 years. She was married in 1835, when she was 21 years old, to Noah Damon, who was then 75 years of age. Damon served through the revolutionary war, having enlisted in 1775.

SHARES RICHES ON BIRTHDAY

Woman Who Gets Chicago Fortune Divides with Children.

JOY IN GIFTS TO LIVING.

Mrs. C. F. Kalgebehn Expects to Have Other Celebrations.

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles F. Kalgebehn of Hoboken found a new way of celebrating her birthday, and tried it today for the first time when she was 69 years old. Now she is looking forward to spending several more birthdays in the same way.

Mrs. Kalgebehn's celebration consisted in gathering her children and presenting them $10,000 apiece. As the children are four, and there is $300,000 to divide, and Mrs. Kalgebehn's health is as good as it was twenty years ago, there are many more such celebrations in sight.

Years back when Mrs. Kalgebehn was still Miss Kussel, an elder brother, Philip, left Hoboken, went to Chicago, and engaged in the wholesale grocery trade. He flourished. Last June the sister got word that Philip, a bachelor and wholesale grocer, was dead, and he had left to his sister in Hoboken his savings, amounting to $300,000.

His sister was married, and with her husband tended a little cafe within hail of the wharves, and helped him turn it gradually into a wholesale liquor business.

Retired in Favor of Boys.

Only a couple of years ago the couple retired. Retiring with them meant moving out from over the store into a second floor apartment on the corner just opposite, where the elder Kalgebehn could sit at a window over the morning paper and keep a heedful eye on the store, leaving the eldest son in charge. Ferdinand, Alfred, and Otto, he admitted, could care for the store well enough.

When Mrs. Kalgebehn was told of the $300,000 inheritance, and it even began to come in piecemeal in checks and papers as the estate was put in order, there began long conferences between the wife and husband. He counseled that the money be put into certain lists of property on which he often had cast an eye as he strolled around town. But she was set firmly on an idea of her own.

"With what is ours, Charles, you decide," she said. "With mine, I want to do after my own ideas."

Spend Money, but Not Foolishly.

The family gathering was today. Three boys were at the house. The other child, Mrs. Tausnelda Camm of Chicago, was absent. The idea of her coming had been suggested by the boys, but their mother had scorned it as foolishness. What! A thousand miles to come just for a day? Who would mind Thusnelda's children and husband while she was from home? And the expense was great. Just because they had money to spend it was no reason to do such foolishness with it.

So there were only three boys at home. It was Sunday, anyway, so the boys naturally wore their Sunday clothes. When the checks had been given out to the boys the mother said:

"Well, boys, be careful with that. Don't you go and give it away now; that is for young people to enjoy, not to throw away."

"Yes, don't do anything foolish, boys; then you get the remainder of the money after us," enjoined the father.

DIRTY CARS SOIL SUNDAY CLOTHES

Garments of Men and Women Are Ruined by Filthy Vehicles on Chicago Traction Lines.

GRIME ON WINDOW PANES

Floors and Seats in Some Instances Covered with Many Days' Accumulation of Rubbish.

No attempt was made yesterday by the street car companies to clean up the filthy street cars for the Sunday traffic.

Sunday always is a profitable day for the traction companies, and they are too busy taking in the nickels to pay attention to dirty cars. Apparently most of the cars left the barns in the morning without being swept. Certainly none of them had been scrubbed.

Patrons of the lines in their best clothes rode in the cars when compelled to by the lack of other transportation facilities, subjected to all the annoyance and discomfort that accompanied the dirt incrusted interiors. As usual, the floors of most of the cars were filthy. No attempt had been made to clean the interstices of the grated floors of a majority of the vehicles inspected by THE TRIBUNE'S reporters. The spaces under the seats were littered with apple cores, shells, newspapers, and other refuse, the accumulation of several days. The windows were so grimy that in instances it was useless to attempt to see through them. Grime that had been ground into the carpeted seats of the cars was transferred to the Sunday garments of women patrons.

Smoking Allowed in Owl Cars.

A ride in one of the owl cars of the North Clark street line of the Union Traction company around 2 o'clock Sunday morning reveals some of the causes of the untidiness of the cars. Smoking is allowed in the cars and no attempt is made by the indifferent conductors to enforce anti-spitting regulations. The atmosphere is enough to make a strong man ill. Smoking is permitted in the owl cars of the Chicago City railway also.

It was suggested early Sunday morning to a conductor that inasmuch as smoking was permitted inside the cars it would not be unreasonable to keep the platforms free from smokers.

"People who don't like it should take the earlier cars," he answered.

There are thousands of night toilers who are obliged to patronize the owl cars.

"It's too dirty in here. Let's ride on the platform," said the taller of two young women, pretty and well groomed, who boarded a Milwaukee avenue car, No. 4081, at Washington and Clark streets. So many others crowded the platform that they were compelled to go inside before the car had reached Desplaines street.

Mayor Dunne and members of the council transportation committee agreed that the condition of the street cars was intolerable.

Mayor Calls It "Abominable."

"THE TRIBUNE is doing good service in calling attention to the abominable condition of the street cars in which the citizens of this city are compelled to ride," said the mayor. "Abominable is a weak term for a description of the condition. The disregard these companies are showing for the comfort of their patrons has come about to the point where patience ends. Something must be done.

"Dr. Doty, as superintendent of transportation, has been seeking for a long time to compel the companies to provide the comforts which they appear unwilling to provide voluntarily. There are something like a thousand suits, I believe, pending against the companies for violation of the street car comfort ordinance. Under the recent decision upholding the validity of the ordinance these prosecutions now are to be pressed.

"The dirty and cold condition of the cars this called to public attention is just another argument for municipal ownership of street transportation lines. If the people owned the cars the demand of the people for cleanliness and comfort would be heeded instead of disregarded."

Evils Noted by Ald. Werno.

"I ride in the North Clark street and Wells street cars," said Ald. Charles Werno, chairman of the transportation committee, "and I know THE TRIBUNE has not exaggerated conditions. The cars apparently are never cleaned. Perhaps the dirt is shoveled out at night and the newspapers are picked up, but the cars certainly are not as clean as they should be. The electric light globes apparently never are washed.

"There is an ordinance—the comfort ordinance—which provides that the cars shall be kept clean. I am not certain whether it requires them to be scrubbed, but I don't see how they can be kept clean unless plenty of soap and water is used on them. The transportation committee will meet next Thursday, and I shall call the attention of the street car representatives to this matter then. Meanwhile Dr. Doty, as city superintendent of transportation, should stir up the traction companies."

Ald. Frank I. Benenett, another member of the transportation committee, said:

"The street cars should not be permitted to leave the barns unless they are cleaned. If the city would insist on this it would not be long before the traction companies began to use scrubbing brushes."

Busy Day for Dr. Doty.

Dr. M. F. Doty, city superintendent of transportation, was found resting his weary limbs last night in a dairy lunchroom after a day spent inspecting the service. He said that THE TRIBUNE'S comments had done him good.

"There is only one thing I would suggest," he remarked. "The city should see to it that the company does its cleaning up in the night time, not in the day, when the cars are badly needed for service. They will play that trick if they can.

"For instance, the city sued them last August for their violation of the 'clean car' ordinance. They were running two old wagons in Western avenue, between Fourteenth and Twenty-sixth streets, that were indescribably dirty. We lost the suit on account of the preponderance of witnesses who could see nothing wrong with the cars, but the company, nevertheless, took them out of service for half a day and cleaned them. That cut down the service, and the people roared with wrath, but the company simply laid the blame on the administration. If the city council passes the 'schedule ordinance' now before the local transportation committee, the companies will have to keep just so many cars in service throughout the day and will do their cleaning in the barns at night."

West Side Cars Filthy.

The new cars running in Ogden avenue and West Madison street are far from immunity from dirt. Some of the conductors on the West Madison street cars were of the opinion that the windows were innocent of the refining influences of soap since being placed in the service. "They looked the part." Here is a record of conditions observed by reporters for THE TRIBUNE:

ARMITAGE AVENUE; Car 4,206—Dirty platforms, floor muddy.

Conditions on North Side.

Conditions on the north side lines are fully as disgusting as on the west side lines, although fewer north side cars were inspected by THE TRIBUNE'S reporters. Almost all of them are in need of cleansing and many of them were unheated. Here is a list of some of the cars inspected:

WOMAN EJECTED FROM HALL AFTER ASSAILING LECTURER.

Mrs. Charles A. Clemens Creates Disturbance at Sun Worshipers' Meeting by Denouncing Head of the Cult.

Mrs. Charles A. Clemens, 285 Forty-fourth street, wife of a tailor at 37 Monroe street, was ejected from a Mazdaznan meeting held by Dr. Hanish, the sun worshiper, in the Athenæum building, 26 Van Buren street, early last night, after she had created a series of disturbances and threatened to exact "vengeance on the head of the Mazdaznan cult."

According to the story told by Mrs. Clemens, she entered the room shortly after the services had been begun and was asked to leave by Dr. Hanish. Leaping from her seat, she shook her fist at the "lecturer" and said she would not leave. It was at that juncture that Detectives Rieck and McCarthy were called in and she was persuaded to leave the hall. As she was passing out the door she turned back and shouted:

"Dr. Hanish makes free use of needles and pins and sticks them into the arms of his followers, telling them at the same time that it is for their good. He advocates free love."

Mrs. Clemens was finally taken to a street car and sent home.

LAD OF 15 DRUNK; FIGHTS 'COP.'

Liquor Bought at Saturday Night Dance Dazes Youth—Resists Officer and Is Arrested.

Dazed by drink, bought for him at a Saturday night dance, Timothy McCarthy Jr., 15 years old, fought two policemen from the Twenty-second street station early yesterday morning when they arrested him in Liberty hall, Thirtieth street and Union avenue.

The boy had attended a dance given at the hall by the Tiger Pleasure and Social club, an organization composed of young men who live in the neighborhood of Thirty-third street and Union avenue.

"It was not my fault that I fought the policemen. See my black eye," said McCarthy at the police station last evening. "The boys of the Tiger club got me pretty drunk. I am not yet 16, but am large for my age."

CHURCHES STRIKE AT DUNNE BOARD.

Methodist Episcopal Congregations Unite in Asking a Change.

WANT AID FROM CHARTER

Ask Amendment to Remove Control of System from One Political Faction.

Mayor Dunne's school board sustained one more severe blow—probably the worst it yet has experienced—yesterday morning, when the entire body of Methodist Episcopal churches of Chicago adopted resolutions demanding a change from the present system.

The churches were united in their demands, which will be made to the charter convention, for legislation which will bring into being a nonpartisan school board. With the possible exception of the fight for higher saloon licenses, which was taken up by nearly every church in Chicago last spring, this is the most general movement espoused by the churches in years.

Nearly every Methodist church in the city—and there are ninety-seven of them—adopted the resolutions. At some of the churches the resolutions merely were read and the congregation was asked to decide what should be done with them, in which cases they were unanimously carried, without an exception. At others the pastors summed up the situation in the present school board and, without the bias of political influences, censured the Dunne administration for bringing about the "trades union movement to be found in the school board."

Resolution Generally Adopted.

The resolution adopted in nearly every case was a copy of that which was introduced at the Methodist ministers' meeting last week, at which this action was decided upon. The resolution follows:

In view of the fact that the public school is essential and fundamental to the American idea, and, further, in view of the fact that the school board of any community, and of Chicago in particular, is the most important board as touching the welfare, present and prospective, of each community and the entire nation;

Therefore, we, the congregation of —— Methodist Episcopal church, urgently petition your honorable commission that in your provision for the new charter you make stipulations for a nonpartisan school board.

The reasons for such a provision are urgent and many, and we as citizens of this city are profoundly interested in such amendment to the present charter as shall forever do away with a board composed almost entirely of one political party.

Dr. Quayle States Position.

The position taken by all of the churches was made plain by the Rev. William A. Quayle, pastor of St. James' Methodist Episcopal church, as follows:

First—We stand for the retention in our public schools of a system for the inculcation and propagation of the American idea.

Second—We stand for the public schools giving an unbiased teaching and unbiased attention to all alike—which is absolutely impossible when the teachers are organized into a labor union, the principles of which make it hostile to all outsiders.

Third—We stand, all the time, for the organization of a nonpartisan school board.

St. James' congregation unanimously adopted the resolutions a week ago and the definition of the position of the churches by Dr. Quayle was called forth by scores of letters of criticism, some of which were abusive, which he had received in the past week.

"That is our position and no sophistry will drive us from it," said Dr. Quayle. "We take no part in the criticisms of the present grading system of the public schools. The system may or may not be right. What we do want, however, is that the school teachers work under a system that will make them broader and better. What we want from school teachers is competency, not petrification.

"Unionism has no more place in the public schools than it has in the fire department. I have no criticism of the unions. The fire department, made up of union men, could not be expected to do the same work at a fire, the result of a union fight, as they would some place else. The school teachers and the firemen should be absolutely unhampered by political or partisan influences of this sort."

Leaves It to Congregation.

The Rev. Ray C. Harker, pastor of the Rogers Park church and president of the Ministers' association, was one of the pastors who in his own words "left the matter to the intelligence of his congregation." He read the resolutions and told the members of the congregation that he would place it in their hands.

"I think that this is a most serious matter and wish a rising vote on it," he said.

In reply every man, woman, and child in the audience with one exception rose. The one man who had objected explained later that it was not because of the merits of the case but because he did not believe that it was a matter to be taken up by the churches.

In many other churches, as was the case at the Forty-seventh Street Methodist church, of which the Rev. Joshua Smith is pastor, the members of the congregation were asked to express their opinion as to the present school board situation and as to the adoption of a petition addressed to a committee of the charter convention asking for legislation making a nonpartisan school board possible. In such churches the affirmative vote in almost every case was unanimous.

Congregation Signs Resolutions.

The resolutions were taken up by the trustees of the Trinity church last week, and it was decided unanimously to place them before the congregation of the church. It was done so in the morning with the result that nearly half the congregation affixed their names to them at the morning service. In the evening more names were added.

"The time is now ripe for the citizens of Chicago to take up all of the important matters and place them before the members of the charter convension," said the Rev. Louis F. W. Lesemann, pastor of Trinity church. "If we do not ask for necessary legislation at this time we will have nobody but ourselves to blame."

When the petitions are delivered to the charter convention committee they will represent the wishes of no less than 100,000 persons. They already bear more than 25,000 signatures.

Cooley Speaks in Own Behalf.

Without making his purpose too plain, Supt. E. G. Cooley took occasion to say a word in self-defense and in opposition to the "reform" school board in an address to the Isaiah congregation, Forty-fifth street and Vincennes avenue, in the morning. He denounced "pull" as undemocratic and declared the opposition to civil service is due to an underlying spirit of commercialism which in politics becomes graft. At no time did the schoolmaster mention the school board or the politics it is trying to play, and while the statements were made general they took on an added significance when uttered by him at this time.

The aim of the public schools, he declared, is not only to educate the young but to inculcate in them the virtues which make for good living and citizenship. The fundamental factors in accomplishing this he gave as industry, punctuality, obedience, and self-control. These moral habits are acquired by the pupils not only in the preparation and recitation of their lessons but on the playground and in their daily lives.

Not Encouraged as Reformer.

"Away back in the eighties," said Supt. Cooley, "I became a civil service reformer, but received little encouragement from any one as to its general adoption save from those who held ideas similar to mine. For a long time I was at a loss to understand this opposition to a principle which to me seems a vital one, but since then I have had occasion to study the question more deeply and I find that this opposition is due to the underlying commercial idea.

"We seem to rate the services of our public men and our inventors on the dollar basis and their ability to crush out competition. I am not a pessimist, however, and believe the world is growing better and that it is a good sign so long as we note these various facts and comment on them. Our social system is not all we would like it, perhaps, and there are some who would turn the control of certain forces over to some government official. But is there anything to show that this same man would not be actuated by the same feelings which now prevail and that he would not use his power for his own aggrandizement or that of a coterie of friends?

Improve Future by Teaching Young.

"If we look to the future for betterment we must hope for better things from the young and to do this must inculcate in them fundamental virtues. The great factors in this are the schools, the press, and the pulpit and I think that sometimes we lay too much stress on the schools. Still there is no denying it is an important factor for its influence is felt by the child when he is still young. The school should teach the child something besides what is between the book covers.

"The child is like the savage and must be taught the value of industry, without which its life cannot avail. The habits of punctuality cannot be valued too highly and I do not doubt that in the life of the citizen it is of more real value than spelling. Obedience is a mark of the highest civilization and the lack of it is not liberty.

"The belief seems to have become prevalent that 'pull' is a democratic thing, but this is an absurdity. To be effective it must be concentrated and it then becomes aristocratic. Think what a condition there would be if everyone had 'pull'—it would fall of its own weight. In this we again see the parasitic principle of getting something for nothing which must be kept from the child. His education must be based solely on the plane of an unselfish intellectual development."

Board Takes Up Post Report.

Having heard from the "democracy" at the "town meeting" held a fortnight ago in Fullerton hall, the school management committee proposes to take up tonight the consideration of the so-called Post report abolishing the system of promotional examinations and secret markings. The town meeting, it was admitted, will play a considerable part in the final shaping up of the committee's report, particularly in the direction of increasing the principal's influence and responsibility in passing the teacher from one salary grade to another. Prof. Tufts of the University of Chicago and Principal Hiram B. Loomis of the Hyde Park High school have been invited to give the committee their professional advice.

Report on Fraternity Influence.

The nineteenth annual conference of academies and high schools will be held at the University of Chicago next Friday and Saturday. The committee on "the influence of fraternities and sororities in secondary schools" will make its final report at Haskell assembly hall on Friday afternoon.

"Social Education Through the Agency of the School" will be discussed by Dean William B. Owen of the University High school at Mandel hall Saturday forenoon. The afternoon session will be given up to departmental conferences.

EFFORT TO BUILD WAR MUSEUM

Steps Will Be Taken Tonight to Raise $100,000 to Provide Home in Garfield Park for Gunther Collection.

Steps to raise $100,000 for the erection of a building to house the Gunther collection of war relics will be taken tonight at a meeting of the West End Woman's club, the West End Neighborhood Improvement association, and the west park board at the former's rooms, Ashland boulevard and West Monroe street. It is proposed to erect the structure in Garfield park. Father Sherman, a Jesuit priest and son of Gen. W. T. Sherman, has wired from Marshalltown, Ia., that he will attend the meeting. Another of the speakers will be Judge Tuthill.

William Matthew Holderby of Cairo, Ill., a student at Princeton theological seminary and a missionary worker among the boys of Princeton, N. J., has started a crusade against excessive drinking by the students of Princeton university and has shocked the university and town with his charges. ROB NEAR POLICE STATION

THIEVES LOOT DYE HOUSE AT 2501 COTTAGE GROVE AVENUE.

Three Doors Away from Quarters of Bluecoats an Entrance Is Forced and Clothing Valued at $1,500 Carried Away—Burglars Break Into Men's Furnishing Establishment and Cart Off $300 Worth of Merchandise and Steal $500 Cash.

Three doors from the Cottage Grove avenue police station is not as safe a place as one might imagine. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning it was discovered that burglars had broken into the cleaning and dyeing house of M. Baker & Co., 2501 Cottage Grove avenue, and had taken clothing valued at $1,500.

When the matter was brought to the attention of the police they expressed the opinion that burglars had entered the place somewhere around 4 o'clock in the morning and that the job was done by some one living in the neighborhood.

Pawnshops to Be Searched.

This did not comfort Mr. Baker much, but he was told that a search would be made in the pawnshops for the missing clothing. An investigation disclosed the fact that patrolmen in passing the place through the night did not see anything to arouse their suspicions. The burglars forced a heavy lock on the front door.

Furnishings Store Is Looted.

The men's furnishing store of Joseph Greenspan, 331 West Chicago avenue, was entered early in the morning by burglars, who carted away merchandise worth $300, besides taking $500, which Mr. Greenspan had left in the cash drawer to pay bills today.

Entrance was obtained by forcing a rear door. Underwear, ties, collars, jewelry, and handkerchiefs were loaded into a wagon standing in the alley. The West Chicago avenue police are working on the case.

Pocketbook Stolen in Car.

Jesse Connors, 2725 Wabash avenue, reported to the Cottage Grove avenue police that he was robbed of a pocketbook containing $40 while riding in a Cottage Grove avenue electric car at Fifty-fifth street. He was unable to give a description of the pickpockets. The Cottage Grove avenue police notified the Hyde Park police, and detectives were sent to search for the pickpockets, who are said to have been operating on the Cottage Grove avenue cars extensively since electric power was substituted for the cable.

Woman Held Up by Two Men.

Miss Gussie Cole, 21 years old, 224 Washington boulevard, was stopped at Randolph and Peoria streets at night by two men, who robbed her of $10.60. Jacob Galva, said to have been one of the woman's assailants, was arrested. Miss Cole said one of the men clutched her throat and the other struck her in the face. When they had forced her to give them her money both ran south in Peoria street. Her cries attracted Detectives Walsh and Clark, who pursued one man, whom they captured and accuse of complicity in the robbery.

SPEECH BY WOMAN ANARCHIST.

Voltairine de Cleyre of Philadelphia Addresses Chicago Comrades at Meeting Held in Masonic Temple.

Miss Voltairine de Cleyre of Philadelphia, an anarchist of national reputation, was the star speaker last night at a gathering of anarchists in a hall on the fourth floor of the Masonic temple. She spoke on "Anarchism in Literature." It was a quiet, orderly talk, without any fireworks or bomb throwing in it. She painted the ethical idea of anarchism as expressed by Shelley, Whitman, and a dozen other famous writers.

Miss De Cleyre is what is known as a nonresistant. Four years ago a Russian boy whom she had been teaching English shot her because she did not return his love. Although she was wounded dangerously, she refused to prosecute him and took up a collection to pay his lawyer's fees to get him out of jail.

It was the anniversary of the execution of the Chicago anarchists, but this was not alluded to except once. Mrs. James Forberg, a cooperative idealist and sister of Walter Thomas Mills, after a fierce denunciation of Thomas J. Morgan, as a machine socialist and the foe of the workingman, said:

"Parsons, Spies, and the rest were not executed because they were socialists or anarchists, but because they stood for better conditions for the working people."

REVOLT AT MERIT BOARD.

RULE REDUCING SERGEANTS TO ONE GRADE DISLIKED.

Detectives at Central Bureau Declare It Is Unfair to Those Who Stand High on the Different Promotional Lists—Chief of Police Collins' Order Practically Reorganizing Capt. O'Brien's Department Is Expected to Be Issued Today or Tomorrow.

Revolt arose yesterday in the central detective bureau over the recent order of the civil service commission reducing the three grades of police sergeants to one grade and making the duties interchangeable, regardless of the examination passed.

The principal cause for complaint was that the new promotional list necessarily would be unfair to men who stood high on any of the old lists for detective, desk, and patrol duties distinctively.

"How is the commission going to pick out the man for the head of the list when there are three men now heading separate promotional lists?" asked a detective. "What right has the commission to make this rule which violates all other rules of civil service?"

The question is one of many things which has been troubling the central bureau men ever since Chief Collins' ax began swinging uncertainly over their heads.

Chief's Order Expected Soon.

The chief's order, creating practically a new bureau and putting the detective service of the department on a higher plane of efficiency than it ever before has reached, is expected today or tomorrow. The chief and the commission decided to bring this about, if possible, even at the expense of the civil service law.

Although Chief Collins has appeared to vacillate on this proposition ever since he came into office, the wisdom of his course has become apparent to a certain extent. The mere threats which he has made without carrying them out have served to inoculate a spirit of fear and trembling into the old chair warming force that has produced some results at least.

Improved Work by Detectives.

"It will be hard to get any of us now for inefficiency," said one member of the bureau who is expecting a transfer today. "The chief will have to be on the square if he takes us out, and I think he is on the square. We are doing our laps now, keeping our eyes open, and letting nothing get by. We make little private memoranda about things that might come up again, and the man that can catch us napping is a good one."

Capt. P. D. O'Brien, in charge of the detective bureau has created a feeling of respect and admiration among his men. He is not a martinet in the office, but is a hard worker and demands the same thing of his men. He has weeded out his force carefully, always pleading for "another chance" for the men that the chief wanted to throw out at once. With the forthcoming order it is expected that a practical reformation will be reached.

Would-Be Policeman Is Arrested.

James Adry, a Syrian who filed an application on Saturday for examination for a position on the Chicago police force, was arrested yesterday on complaint of Hadrid Ahmed, 40 Custom House court, who alleged that Adry and Mike Mattran attempted to rob him. Until recently Adry was a detective for the Monon railroad. He denied the robbery charge and declared it was made to prevent him from becoming a policeman.

FIGHT EXPECTED TONIGHT ON BILLBOARD ORDINANCE.

Judiciary Committee's Measure to Restrict Sizes and Positions of Street Signs Comes Up in Council.

A lively fight is scheduled to come off tonight in the city council over the proposed ordinance regulating the construction of bill boards, which was drawn and introduced by the judiciary committee. At the instance of Ald. Dever, chairman of the committee, the measure was made a special order for tonight and the partisans of the bill board companies which are strongly opposed to the ordinance are expected to be present in force.

The bill board ordinance has been fought in and out of the council committee and all along the line by the advertising concerns. The private interests effected declare the restrictions imposed will prohibit the natural expansion of their business.

The ordinance for the prohibition of the sale of cigarets and the restriction of smoking by minors will be considered by the council judiciary committee tomorrow afternoon. The ordinance, which is proposed by the Anti-Cigaret league, has received the approval of the corporation counsel. Its provisions are:

No cigarets, cigaret papers, or tobacco containing deleterious substances shall be manufactured or sold or given away within the city.

The delivery of tobacco to a minor under 18 years of age without the written order of parents or guardian is prohibited.

For violation of either of these provisions the punishment is fixed at a fine of from $5 to $50 for a first conviction, and from $25 to $200 for subsequent convictions.

Smoking by minors under 18 years of age in streets, parks, and other public places is prohibited, punishment being fixed at a fine of not more than $10.

Any person tempting a minor to smoke or use tobacco in any other form shall be punished by a fine of $5 to $50 for a first offense, and from $25 to $200 for subsequent offenses.

The ordinance was introduced into the council by Ald. Hunter. Its most persistent lobbyist is Miss Lucy Page Gaston, superintendent of the Anti-Cigaret league.

Annoys Young Girl; Arrested.

Herbert F. Gilford, a druggist, 1800 Indiana avenue, was arrested yesterday on charges preferred by William Graham, 1809 Indiana avenue. It is alleged that Gilford annoyed Dolly Graham, 11 years old, with his attentions. He will be arraigned before Justice Caverly this morning.

REIGN OF TERROR RULES PITTSBURG

Murders, Assaults, and Hold-ups Daily Occurrences; No Arrests Made.

RICH YOUTH NEW VICTIM.

Son of Wealthy Business Man Is Killed by Burglar Whom He Surprises.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Pittsburgers do not accost an acquaintance with "How are you today?" but "Have you been robbed recently?"

Pittsburg is as lawless as the frontier towns of a score of years ago. Human life never was held cheaper anywhere. The community long has been used to two or three "Hunky" murders, where Slavs, Italians, or negroes kill each other, but now the better or more wealthy class is furnishing the victims.

Early this morning Henry F. Smith, aged 25, son of the millionaire treasurer of the Pittsburg Label company, was killed by a burglar in his father's mansion, St. Clair and Elgin streets, the heart of the ultra-fashionable Highland park district.

Struggle Precedes Murder.

Young Smith discovered the burglar at work in the dining room, and that a desperate struggle resulted is shown by the disordered condition of the dining room and kitchen.

In addition to the two bullets which were found to have entered Smith's body, five other balls were found lodged in the floors and wall of the two rooms. Three cartridges of Smith's revolver had been discharged.

Neighbors adjacent to the Smith home heard the shots and ran to their windows, but say they saw no one running from the house.

Hundreds of dollars worth of silver plate had been gathered together by the burglar, who apparently had been in the house some time before being heard.

Another holdup was reported to the police today. Miss Isabelle Livingston was held up by a negro near her home. The negro held a revolver at her head until he took her purse and then disappeared.

Many Murders; No Arrests.

The Smith tragedy follows fast upon the murder of James A. McMillan, a wealthy business man; the assault and robbery of James Bowler, a high salaried steel man, who is dying in a hospital; and scores of other violent attacks. Every day the police get reports of holdups, but no arrests are made.

No man who returns to his home in the residence sections after dark cares to walk on the sidewalks. He takes to the middle of the street and keeps his hand on his gun. The house doors are double locked and the shutters are barred, and women dare not go out alone even in the early evening.

The police department for months has been asking the city council to give 200 more policemen, but the council has taken no action. Now Director Frank Ridgway, with the sanction of Mayor George W. Guthrie, is increasing the force, trusting that public opinion will compel the council to make an appropriation to pay the men.

GIRLS WEAR DADS' CLOTHES; BIG BURGLAR SCARE RESULT.

Indianapolis Parents Summon Police to Find Suits—Daughters Having Fun at "Stag" Party.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Miss Gertrude Thornberry celebrated her nineteenth birthday last night and invited several girl friends to her home for a "stag" dance and stipulated that her friends must come attired in men's apparel. When the girls assembled there was great diversity of costumes, ranging from the short, business coat to the conventional swallow tail with the accompanying silk hat.

The dance was in progress when one of the parents discovered that his Sunday suit was missing. About the same time a neighbor missed his dress suit, and close on the heels of this another neighbor reported that his new suit, just received from a tailor, had been taken. It was clear that a wholesale raid had been made in the neighborhood, and, after notifying the police, some of the parents went over to the house of mirth to see if, possibly, their daughters knew anything of the missing garments.

There the facts became known and the "stag" party was allowed to go on uninterrupted.

LADD BANK ROBBERS OF JOLIET.

One Taken at His Home and Is Said to Have Confessed—Police Think They're Near Other.

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—The robbers who made a sensational daylight raid on the bank at Ladd, Ill., last Tuesday and secured a large sum of money were Joliet men.

Nels Benson, one of them, was apprehended at his home here today by Detective Martin Murphy of the local force. He has confessed, it is said.

His partner is still a fugitive, but his capture is expected shortly, as the officers have a good clew. Sheriff Trumbo of La Salle county and two Pinkerton detectives are on the case.

Benson is married and has lived here for years. The name of his companion is being suppressed.

AUTHORITY TO SELL CANAL DOUBTED BY COMMISSIONER.

Clarence Snively Says Constitution Requires the Proposition to Receive Majority of All the Votes Cast.

Clarence E. Snively of Canton, one of the commissioners of the old Illinois and Michigan canal, declared yesterday that it is far from certain whether the proposition to sell the tadpole ditch carried the requisite number of votes in last Tuesday's referendum.

"No claim has been made by the canal commission," he said, "that the proposition needs only a majority of the votes cast on it. The constitution directs that it must be a majority of all the votes cast at the election. Whether that majority was carried by the little ballot will not be known until all the returns are in."

With the little ballot returns from twenty counties missing the proposition is now credited with 36 per cent of the total number of votes.

"If the little ballot carried," Mr. Snively added, "no sale can be made until the governor has given his approval. The commissioners have no interest in the matter outside of their duty. The people were asked if they wished the old channel disposed of. When the connection with the drainage channel is completed there will be no further use for the old canal. It will cost money to keep it pumped full of water, or, if abandoned, it might become a menace to the public health, for which the commission would be responsible. So we decided to submit the proposition of sale to the people."

Mr. Snively thought the value of the land in question is overestimated when placed at $10,000,000.

NOVEMBER 25.

HARAHAN BEGINS HIS NEW DUTIES.

Takes Hold at Once in Office as President of the Illinois Central.

TALKS OF HILL'S SPEECH.

Thinks More Rolling Stock Is Needed to Relieve Congestion of Freight.

J. T. Harahan, the newly elected president of the Illinois Central railroad, got back yesterday from New York and immediately went to his old office on the sixth floor of the railroad building in Park row, where he began to look over his mail and to hear reports from officers—some of them by telephone.

"I wouldn't live in New York under any circumstances," said he. "You couldn't hire me to live there. I have lived here for years, and my friends and relations and all my interests are here.

"That was one of the first things that I worried about when the question of my being a candidate for president came up. I would not consent to the headquarters being anywhere else. You can't run a railroad by long distance method. You have to be on the spot. I remember I was called up at my home at 10 o'clock at night when the big New Orleans fire occurred on Feb. 26, 1905. In seven minutes I had started men and material for New Orleans from the nearest point—not to put out the fire, but to rebuild. The work of rebuilding was in progress at 9 o'clock the next day."

His Views Differ from Hill's.

The new president of the Illinois Central made it clear that he did not agree with President James J. Hill of the Great Northern as to the cause of congestion of freight traffic.

"What we want more than anything else is more cars and more locomotives," said Mr. Harahan. "I see Mr. Hill said last night in a speech that while business had increased 110 per cent in the last ten years railroad trackage had increased only 20 per cent. He must mean the actual miles of new railroad. I don't believe he has taken into account the double tracking and in some cases the triple and quadruple tracking.

Cause of Freight Congestion.

"The congestion of freight is not so much the question of track but of cars and locomotives and the prompt handling of the carriers. We could handle 50 per cent more cars and locomotives, but there are not facilities for turning them out. We have plenty of tracks. It may be different with Mr. Hill's railroad in developing the great northwest. I never have ridden over an inch of the line.

"Mr. Hill, quoting from statistics, said freight cars running from twelve to fifteen miles an hour average a movement of twenty-five miles in twenty-four hours. We get considerably more movement than that out of our cars. I'm not telling how much it is—it's not to the—but it is more than that. To avoid freight congestion the cars should be loaded and unloaded promptly. If we could get our cars that are held by the other roads it would relieve a lot of our congestion."

Mr. Harahan will make an extended trip over the line this week—something he has not had the opportunity of doing for some time—and any improvements that are needed will be a development of that trip.

When he was asked about Mr. Fish, Mr. Harahan said he wasn't going to say anything at present. He shut up tight as a clam when asked if there had been any clashes.

"Later, when I've had plenty of time to size it over," said he, "I am going to make a statement that will cover the insinuations that have appeared in the press that I was unfair to Mr. Fish. That was the only thing that hurt."

To Elect First Vice President.

Mr. Harahan will return to New York for the meeting of the directors Nov. 21. Mr. Welling's successor will be elected then. As first vice president Mr. Welling was in charge of the auditing and treasury department and had 300 men under him, with six or seven department heads. One of the most important of these heads is C. F. Krebs, the controller.

"Mr. Welling's successor will be selected from his department," said Mr. Harahan, "so I don't care to say who he will be."

"How about your successor as second vice president?"

"There is no hurry about that. The matter hasn't been considered. It may be discussed in New York. The Illinois Central, I may say, believes in civil service."

"Is there any possibility that your son will be promoted to the office?"

"I haven't thought about it at all," Mr. Harahan answered.

Talks of Road's Directorate.

As to the contention made in New York by J. B. Dill, Mr. Fish's attorney, that under the Illinois statutes it was required that a majority of directors should be residents of this state, Mr. Harahan said:

"That point years ago was decided in the negative by eminent counsel. Judge Ayer said it was not necessary, and the same opinion has been given by J. M. Dickenson, general counsel for the railroad. The road is operated under a special charter and the law about home directors does not apply to it. In any case, it simply would mean the election of additional directors in Illinois."

On the question of the Illinois Central's new rates, Mr. Harahan said they probably would be adjusted without any trouble. The road would protect its interests but desired to be on amicable terms with the state and its administration.

Mat. W. L. Smith, who for sixteen years has been Mr. Harahan's assistant, probably will remain in that capacity, although Mr. Harahan said nothing definite had been decided on that point.

Many Congratulations Received.

Mr. Harahan felt pleased over all the congratulatory telegrams and letters he had received.

"There are about 500 telegrams and the same number of letters" he said. "They came from all the way down the line, from commercial associations, public officials, and individuals. I've always had due regard for the people along the line during the six years I've been with the road, but these expressions of good will are especially gratifying. My son, W. J. Harahan, has just returned from a trip over the line, and he says everybody is well satisfied over the result of the election."

It was suggested that the traffic would be considerable—stupendous in fact—after the Panama canal is built. Mr. Harahan laughed.

"That's a long time ahead," he said. "I may be dead and you may be dead. We won't even let the canal chickens until they are hatched."

Traffic Arrangement to Stand.

The eastern terminal of the Union Pacific is Kansas City-Omaha so far as Chicago is concerned. The Union Pacific turns over to the Northwestern at Omaha its passenger and freight business. It might be considered business now that the Illinois Central and the Harriman lines are in closer relationship for the Union Pacific to use the Omaha extension of the Illinois Central into Chicago. Mr. Harahan was asked if the Union Pacific would not abrogate its arrangement with the Northwestern and turn over all that business—amounting to many millions of dollars—to the Illinois Central branch line.

"There will be no change in the relations between the Northwestern and the Milwaukee lines and the Pacific railroads," Mr. Harahan said decidedly. "It would not be feasible to run terminal trains to Fort Dodge."

Murder Suspect Breaks Jail in Ohio.

Toledo, O., Nov. 11.—"Red" McGuire, who is charged with the murder of Marshal Thornton of Bowling Green, escaped from the jail at Bowling Green last night with two other prisoners held on charges of burglary. The men picked the locks of their cells and by tying three blankets together were enabled to descend from a second story window.

Spending Sunday Afternoon at the Flower Show.

FLOWERS SEEN BY 10,000.

FINAL DAY OF EXHIBIT DRAWS VAST GATHERING.

Opportunity to See Last of Floral Display Accepted by Mass of Working People—Largest Attendance of Its History — Sacred Concert and Lecture Takes Place of Contests—Lincoln Park Chrysanthemum Show Opened.

The opportunity to see the flower show at the Coliseum, extended to the working people of Chicago on the closing day, yesterday was seized by 10,000 persons. It was the first Sunday exhibit in the history of the show and the success of the plan is best measured by the fact that the attendance was the largest in the annals of the show.

As soon as the Coliseum doors swung open at 10:30 a. m. the eager flower lovers began pouring into the building. By 3 o'clock the attendance had reached 3,000. The night attendance doubled that of the afternoon. Men, women, and children, down to babes in arms, fairly swarmed the vast arena of floral beauty, and, like so many bees, searched out the sweetest blooms and lingered long over them, inhaling their perfume.

Sacred Concert Displaces Contests.

It being Sunday no contests were waged among the blooms. From the balcony came strains of sacred music. The Seventh regiment band soloist, Arthur Hahn, sang "The Holy City," "Asleep in the Deep," and several sacred selections. At 3 o'clock Frederic Cranefield, secretary of the State Horticulture society, Madison, Wis., delivered an illustrated lecture on "Practical Home Ground Planting." The lecture and the model gardens were of interest to the visitors, most of them being those who set out their own flowers and shrubbery.

Naturally the displays of private gardeners' entries were of more than passing interest to the Sunday visitors. Among these was a chrysanthemum plant bearing on a single stem twenty-five varieties of flowers, of all colors, exhibited by Mrs John J. Mitchell. This effect was produced by grafting. Aid.

Flower Girls Form Attraction.

All afternoon the flower girls, who presided at long tables at the south end of the Coliseum, were kept busy selling blooms and posters. An impromptu voting contest for the prettiest flower girl was awarded to Miss Bonnie Brown, 3258 Princeton avenue.

Soon after the show closed at 11 o'clock last night the Coliseum began to assume the aspect of "a banquet hall deserted," as the flowers were moved out. The biggest task on the hands of the show management is to get rid of ten miles of laurel roping. Supt. Asmus said most of it will be dealt out to churches for decorating bazaars.

In anticipation of a large Sunday crowd the watchful eye of Building Commissioner Bartzen did not miss the flower show. He ordered that several exhibits be shifted so as to give easier access to the exits.

Lincoln Park Show Open.

Yesterday was annual chrysanthemum day at Lincoln park, and "mums" was the word. For days the florists have been arraying the north conservatory with this year's elaborate crop of chrysanthemums. Several new species, propagated by the park florists, were given prominence. Conspicuous among these was the Sarah Bernhardt, a dainty, silver pink variety, never before shown, and of which there was a large number.

Tastily arranged for color effect, the greenhouse presented a miniature flower show in itself. Flower lovers who have whetted their esthetic tastes during the last week at the Coliseum will have opportunity to prolong the spell for the ensuing week at the park flower show.

PAIR GONE; SPOOKS SEEN.

MAN AND WIFE MISSING; NOTE TELLS OF MURDER.

Loomis Street Mystery Puzzles Police —Letter Found by Neighbor Causes Investigation, and Mr. and Mrs. John Schumacher Cannot Be Found —Neighbors Recount Hearing Noises and Seeing Bundles Thrown from Windows Disappear Strangely.

Another "spook" mystery has been given to the police to solve. Unlike that which recently kept the police of Englewood on the alert a few weeks ago, there are two persons missing—a man and his wife. Instead of the loud rappings, as in the former mystery, bundles of clothing are thrown upon the sidewalk from a window and immediately disappear.

The building is at 144 Loomis street and is owned by the Rev. Mrs. Morean Schumacher, pastor of the Students of Nature church, and wife of John—" Plain John "—Schumacher, said to be a salesman for the Simons Saw company. Detectives headed by Lieut. Hartford have visited the building each night for the last three nights, following the finding of a note under the door of the house of Henry Falkenberg, 136 Loomis street, four doors north.

Note Tells of Murder.

The note told first of the disappearance of Schumacher and his wife. Then followed information which the police think a hoax, but upon which they are working seriously. This, according to the police, is an extract from the letter:

"I have killed my wife with an ax. Nobody will ever find me. Give this letter to Hemmerich.

While the note is addressed to Falkenberg and signed with the name of Schumacher, it asks him not to tell the police, and requests him to notify Louis Hemmerich, a grocer, 468 West Van Buren street, that Mrs. Schumacher is dead. Falkenberg took the note to Hemmerich and he gave it to the police.

When the policemen went to the house the first evening all they found was a cat. The house was in order and there was evidence that persons had been there a few days before. Neighbors said they had not seen the Schumachers for four days. Many peculiar things were told as having occurred since then. Some neighbors told Lieut. Hartford they had seen faces appear and disappear at the windows and had seen bundles thrown out. Two policemen are guarding the house while in the meantime an effort is being made to find the missing couple. Mrs. Schumacher, who styled herself "Rev.," had a class of students which she was instructing in some sort of religious cult.

Says Wife and Child Disappeared.

Jallobore Slipico, 298 Forquer street, has complained to the police of the Desplaines street station that his wife and child have disappeared. The police could find no clew to the missing ones.

DOG AERONAUT CAUSES PANIC.

Parachute to Which Animal Was Attached Throws Pole Into Crowd of Children at Mount Vernon, Ill.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Two children were seriously injured and several others hurt by a balloon ascension mishap here today, when a parachute to which a dog was attached became entangled with a pole. The pole fell into the crowd, which consisted principally of boys and girls. Several were crushed and trampled upon in a panic which ensued. The dog aeronaut fell thirty feet and was uninjured.

FOUND DYING IN STREET.

ITALIAN IS FATALLY WOUNDED BY STILETTO AND BULLETS.

His Brother and Other Witnesses Believe He Was Attacked by Friends of Venetian Merchant, with Whose Daughter He Eloped—Physicians at the County Hospital Declare Their Belief He Cannot Survive the Night —Vain Search for Assailants.

Matale Viverso, 176 North Green street, an Italian, was found dying at midnight at Milwaukee avenue and Ohio street. He was taken to the county hospital and an examination showed three stiletto wounds in his back and two bullet wounds in the back of his head.

According to the story told by his brother, Angelo Viverso, 46 Grand avenue, and two witnesses, who refused to tell their names or addresses for fear of being killed, Matale eloped from Venice three years ago with the daughter of a merchant after the girl's father had refused to sanction their marriage. The father vowed vengeance, and it is believed he had friends in this country who carried out the vow for him.

Often Warned by His Brother.

"I had often warned my brother," said Angelo to the police through an interpreter, "that he was being followed by people who were intent upon taking his life, and he was always guarding against attack. Tonight, with myself and some friends, we were celebrating a church holiday and had separated shortly before midnight. My brother had not been away from us more than ten minutes when he was attacked, and I am convinced he had been followed all night. I think I can identify the men who did the work from the description given by witnesses."

The two witnesses, who claim to have seen the attack, and who are also Italians unable to talk English, told the police through the interpreter that shortly before midnight they were passing along Milwaukee avenue, when they saw two men approach Viverso from behind and attack him.

Doctors at the county hospital said Viverso probably would not survive the night.

Saloon Row May Be Fatal.

During a fight in a saloon at 515 Hastings street in the evening Thomas Colnan, 30 years old, 54 Cypress street, was shot and probably fatally wounded. The police are searching for Joseph Cooney, said to live above the saloon. He is said to have shot Colnan.

According to George Hendricks, 502 Hastings street; James Moran, 515 Hastings street, and J. W. Turner, 553 Hastings street, who were in the saloon, Cooney entered carrying a revolver and threatening to "kill every one in the place." He was seized by the proprietor, Max Kabelsky. Colnan went to Kabelsky's assistance and was shot. At the county hospital it was said Colnan would die.

Stephen Posternotki, 14 years old, 448 Elston avenue, while playing with friends was shot in the right arm by William Fisher, a watchman. Fisher told the police that he only fired to frighten the boys.

William Scott, colored, 22 years old, who shot and slightly wounded Daniel Downey, a cabman, in front of Rector's restaurant, was arrested.

ERIE R. R. STRIKE IS UP TO FIREMEN

Poll of Men Begun to Decide What to Do About Stand of the Officials.

ENGINEERS IN IT, TOO.

Delegation of Sixty from Other Roads in Conferences with Union Leaders.

New York, Nov. 11.—The question of a strike of the firemen on the Erie railroad, because of the refusal yesterday of the officials to grant the men's demands for reduced working hours, now is being voted on.

The firemen's grievance committee left its headquarters today to take a poll. The committee began the canvass in New Jersey. The result of the vote probably will not be known until Tuesday.

Grand Chief John J. Hannahan of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen spent a busy day holding numerous conferences with the grievance committees from the various branches of the road. At the close of the final conference he refused to make any statement.

It was announced by Chief Hanrahan tonight that committees of the trainmen's and firemen's organizations are now in Pittsburg to ask the Pennsylvania railroad for an advance in wages on the lines west of Pittsburg. These committees will probably confer with the company tomorrow.

Will Affect Chicago Traffic.

If the firemen vote to uphold the committee, a strike will probably follow, which will affect the Erie road and all of its subsidiary lines from New York to Chicago. Besides the 1,800 firemen on the road there are 675 locomotive engineers who still carry firemen's union cards.

At headquarters today were also sixty men representing the engineers on the Erie, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the New York Central, and the New York, New Haven, and Hartford railroads. Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was present, but after the meeting he refused to make any statement.

West Shore Engineers Restless.

Besides the secret conference of engineers there was a meeting tonight of West Shore railroad engineers at Union Hill, N. J. It is reported that this gathering related to the present railroad situation.

It was said tonight on good authority that the marine engineers on the tug boats and the ferry boats of the Erie had formulated a petition asking for an increase in pay of $20 a month and that this demand will be pressed with the demands of the firemen.

Despite today's developments, E. W. Hurley, assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said that the Erie engineers were neither expecting nor desiring a strike. He remarked that the brotherhood was in excellent condition to stand a strike, as were the firemen. When asked what the engineers on the Erie would do if a strike of the firemen took place, he said:

"The engineers are under a contract with the company which will not be broken unless the company breaks it. That contract cannot be nullified without thirty days' notice by the side that wishes to withdraw."

MAN'S STOMACH FURNISHES ELECTRICITY FOR TELEPHONE

San Francisco Doctors by Experiment Say They Have Proved That "Juice" Controls Operation of Human Senses.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 11.—Before a number of medical men and scientists today Drs. Albert J. Atkins and E. J. Lewis succeeded in charging an electrical circuit with human electricity to such a degree that external sound waves were transmitted and heard through an ordinary telephone receiver.

The experiment consisted of the application of two platinum electrodes to the walls of the living stomach. By means of copper wires the electrodes were connected with a telephone and microphone. There was no mechanical or chemical battery in the circuit, yet the moment the electrodes were swallowed sufficiently to touch the walls of the stomach human electricity flowed over the wires, rendering sounds audible. The electric charge measured from seven to eight millivolts.

Col. E. P. Richardson, the subject of the experiment, swallowed the electrodes and succeeded in retaining them for a considerable time. "After a brief rest he was given a drink of whisky. On again connecting the electrodes with the interior lining of his stomach the galvanometer registered fifteen millivolts.

Drs. Atkins and Lewis assert that by this experiment they have demonstrated the law of action of the human senses. They reason that if sound is transmitted over a copper wire when it is charged with human electricity it is reasonable to consider the principle the same when the auditory nerve is charged with the same force. In other words, one hears when the auditory nerve is made sensitive with human electricity on the same principle by which one receives a telephone message.

Furthermore, these scientists declare that by a series of experiments they have proved that digestion is an electro-chemical process, that all life action in the body is dependent on the activity of the electrical forces within the organism, and that variations of sense manifestation, as sight, hearing, etc., are caused by the different rates of vibration set up by the human electrical currents acting on the sense nerves.

REPUBLICAN HAS CROW WHILE DEMOCRATS REGALE ON SQUAB.

New Jersey Man Pays Forfeit on Election by Partaking of Unpalatables Amid Fellows Enjoying Royal Gorge.

Caldwell, N. J., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—A dyed in the wool republican ate raw catfish and baked crow, stuffed with sawdust and green persimmons sprinkled with cayenne pepper last night, while eleven democrats sat around and jeered and regaled themselves on Jersey squab en casserole and blue points on the shell.

For drink the republican had a quart of hops and vinegar. The democrats had export beer.

John Elmsdorf was the lone republican. He thought the republican party had such a hold on Essex county, the home of United States Senator Dryden, that its grip could not possibly be shaken. Solomon Kent bet him a supper for twelve that the democrats would carry the county. It was agreed the loser would eat crow and equally unpalatable dishes, while the others should have Jersey squabs. Both Elmsdorf and Kent placed $100 in the hands of a hotel man as a forfeit in case of failure to live up to the bargain.

Elmsdorf swallowed crow, with its sawdust and cayenne seasoning, and the other "delicacies" with the best grace he could muster amid an uproar of laughter with which the democrats greeted his grimaces.

SHIP ASHORE; VOYAGERS SAFE.

Steamer Kensington Is Aground at Matan, 196 Miles Below Quebec.

MONTREAL, Can., Nov. 11.—The dominion steamer Kensington is reported ashore at Matan, 196 miles below Quebec. The Kensington was bound from Liverpool to Montreal. A snowstorm was raging when the steamer struck. The Kensington's passengers were transferred safely.

USE AUTO TO FOIL A MOB,

ILLINOIS OFFICERS PROTECT PRISONER, ENGAGING IN CHASE.

Hurry Accused from Jail at Wenona to Eureka, Resorting to Strategic Methods to Land Suspect in Stronger Cell—Members of Crowd Which Threatens Life of Suspect Pursue Officials, Firing in Hope of Puncturing Tire and Disabling Machine.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 11.—[Special]—George Crumley of Wenona, forty miles east of Peoria, was saved from a mob today by means of an auto. Crumley was suspected of the murder of a farmer of Eureka on Aug. 28 and had just been arrested.

Yesterday afternoon the sheriff of Eureka ordered that the prisoner be driven to Eureka. When this order came to Wenona it was the first intimation that the suspected murderer was in that town. Immediately a crowd began to gather at the jail. It grew rapidly and threats were made against the accused.

Mob Cries for Violence.

"Get him out of jail, kill him, hang him!" shouted members of the mob. The town marshal became alarmed. He consulted his deputies and they decided on a ruse to get the prisoner away from the mob. The marshal communicated with a citizen who owned a large touring car and he was instructed to be in readiness a couple of blocks away from the jail.

In the meantime the orders of the sheriff apparently were being carried out. A rig was brought from a livery stable and Crumley was hurried out of a side door of the jail and into a carriage. Sight of the suspected murderer aroused the crowd into a frenzy, and it gave hot chase. On a dead run the carriage was driven away from the jail. With drawn revolvers the officers faced the mob, some of whom flourished revolvers. The officers hurried the prisoner into the car, which sped away.

Chase After Auto.

But the chase did not end when the prisoner was placed in the car, for members of the mob attempted to follow in buggies and on horseback. Several shots were fired in an attempt to puncture the tires of the auto, but the machine escaped and the trip was made to the larger jail in Eureka in record time.

James Gibbons was the farmer who was murdered last August. He was a bachelor and was found one morning with his head blown off by a shotgun. He had been robbed of several hundred dollars. Crumley, who lived in the vicinity, disappeared after the crime and was not discovered until Saturday.

AUTO AND 4 PLUNGE 15 FEET OVER WALL; NONE BADLY HURT.

Party of St. Louisans Escape as if by Miracle When Machine Leaps from Culvert in Forest Park.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—An automobile carrying four persons, driven by Miss Ethel Moore of 3905 Westminster place, while dashing down Southwest drive in Forest park this afternoon, failed to make a turn at a point near Haverstock culvert, plunged across a grass plot, broke through a rail fence, and finally tumbled over a fifteen foot wall, turning a complete somersault. None of the occupants was seriously injured.

Sitting beside Miss Moore on the steering seat was Louis Krietemeyer. Back of them were Miss Natalie Hewitt of 5713 Vernon avenue and James Brugler of 5669 Cates avenue. Miss Hewitt was the most seriously injured. She received a severe scalp wound and was rendered unconscious. She was revived soon and sent home in another automobile.

Miss Moore's right knee was injured and she suffered bruises about the body, but she was able to go home without assistance. Brugler has a bruised right arm, but Krietemeyer escaped entirely.

It is supposed the auto's steering gear was out of order. When it went over the edge of the culvert it dropped like a shot, with its nose pointing directly toward the ground. The shock spilled the occupants out, and the machine turned another somersault over them.

"I was preparing to make a clear turn at the lower part of the road," said Miss Moore afterwards, "when I lost control of the machine. When I reached the bend I drove close to the grass, with the power off and the brake on. The macine did not turn. Instead of following the road it started across a grassplot.

"I still was not frightened, for I felt sure the brakes would hold. In another moment, before we realized it, we had shot across something—a bridge—and the next moment were plunging over the rock wall."

STABBED BY A WOMAN; DIES REFUSING TO GIVE HER NAME.

Pennsylvania Police Face Apparently Unsolvable Puzzle in Fatal Injury to Young Man of Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 11.—Thomas Dougherty, a prominent young man of Dunmore, a suburb of Scranton, died in the state hospital today as the result of being stabbed by an unknown woman last night. Dougherty refused to make any ante-mortem statement as to the name of the person, but admitted it was a woman and that he was to blame.

Dougherty said that he was visiting a woman, and that she stuck a needle or a hatpin in him, after which he was taken ill.

No one could give any information as to where Dougherty had spent the evening, and he absolutely refused to give the physicians any details as to the manner in which he sustained injury.

An autopsy revealed that he had been stabbed with some fine instrument, and that it had entered his heart.

The police are unable to discover any trace of Dougherty's whereabouts previous to the time that a doctor was summoned.

Coroner Stein tonight ordered the arrest of Mary Burke, a young Dunmore woman, on whom Dougherty called last night. She has not yet been located. The coroner declares that it was a hatpin which penetrated Dougherty's heart and that it passed through the fifth rib, indicating that it had been jabbed with great force.

AIDS GIRL TO WED HIS RIVAL.

Niece of Mrs. Misner Elopes from Philadelphia—One Suitor Helps Plan Unknowingly.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Miss Carrie Riley, a niece of Mrs. Misner, widow of Charles T. Yerkes, is the heroine of an elopement in which one suitor for her hand unconsciously assisted her to become the bride of a rival.

Miss Riley was married to Philip J. Fitzpatrick in Atlantic City yesterday and will start housekeeping in New York this month instead of entering the boarding school selected by her parents.

The bride is a stepdaughter of Harry Sanderson, a wealthy merchant of this city. Her mother is a sister of Mrs. Misner.

Yesterday morning Mr. Sanderson went to his office in this city and his daughter followed on the next train. Before leaving home the girl telephoned to one of her admirers in Bala asking him to escort her to Philadelphia. He carried her dress suit case and on arrival in the city she told him she had an engagement and thanked him for his kindness. She met Fitzpatrick and the couple went direct to Atlantic City, where they were married.

FOUR VICTIMS OF A RUNAWAY HORSE

Animal Frightened by Touring Car Injures Two Men, Boy, and a Nurse.

LITTLE LAD HURT WORST.

F. Fitzgerald Is Run Down by an Automobile While Crossing State Street.

Four persons were injured, one of them seriously, when a horse attached to a buggy in which two men were driving in Michigan avenue yesterday afternoon became frightened at a speeding automobile at Thirty-ninth street and ran to the Twenty-ninth street crossing before it was stopped. Maddened with fear, the animal broke from William C. Haas, the driver, and plunged along the sidewalk for nearly half a mile.

The Injured.

HAAS, WILLIAM C., 37 years old, 5746 Grove avenue; scalp wound and bruised about face and body.

HEEBER, C., 2917 Vernon avenue; injured about right shoulder.

PHILLIPS, WILLIAM, 5 years old, 7219 Michigan avenue, son of W. B. Phillips, vice president of Doless, Shepard & Co.; run down by horse; skull probably fractured.

PEPARD, NELLIE, 40 years old; nurse, living at Phillips' home; bruised about body in effort to rescue her charge.

The accident happened while Haas, who is a coachman employed by W. P. Rend, 115 Dearborn street, was driving north in the avenue, accompanied by Heeber.

Frightened by Touring Car.

When Thirty-ninth street was reached a large touring car swept past. The animal started on a wild gallop north, turning from the roadway, and continued its flight along the east sidewalk. Realizing the danger to pedestrians, Haas rose in his seat and shouted that the horse was beyond his control.

"Out of the way; I am powerless to do anything!" he shouted as he vainly tugged at the reins. Heeber at the first lunge of the animal was thrown from his seat, but regained his hold and then tried to assist Haas. When Thirty-second street was reached the vehicle struck the edge of the walk, and Heeber fell from the buggy. He rolled along the ground, but escaped with a few slight bruises.

Nurse and Charge Injured.

Unaware of the approaching runaway William Phillips was playing on the sidewalk in front of his home, and it was not until the horse was almost upon him that he uttered a scream that attracted the attention of his nurse. Despite her plucky attempt to reach him in time he was knocked to the pavement and she was sent whirling away as the wheels struck her. The boy was carried into his home and Dr. I. A. Abt, 4226 Vincennes avenue, was called. The physician said the little boy probably would recover.

The horse was stopped at Twenty-ninth street by Policeman Ahearn of the Stanton avenue station, and Haas, who was severely injured, was cared for by Dr. P. C. Bonner, 3130 Indiana avenue.

Man Run Down by Automobile.

An automobile belonging to S. Cobb Coleman, 23 Lake Shore drive, ran down and injured John F. Fitzgerald, 38 years old, 477 La Salle avenue, as he was crossing North State street at Oak street. Fitzgerald was bruised about his head and shoulders and he is believed to be hurt internally. Mr. Coleman's chauffeur, Fred Wahlmeyer was alone in the machine and was on his way to a garage when Fitzgerald was struck. Wahlmeyer stopped the vehicle as soon as possible and assisted in carrying the unconscious man into a drug store, where he was revived by a physician.

Probationary Patrolman Hurt.

In attempting to stop a runaway fire engine horse, Probationary Patrolman Daniel A. Lynch of the Warren avenue station was severely injured. Lynch is at the Mercy street hospital, suffering from a fracture of his right leg, a sprained back, and his head badly bruised. Although his condition is serious, he will recover.

SOCIETY WOMEN CRITICISED FOR NEGLECT OF CHILDREN.

Paulist Priest Declares the Leaving of Little Ones to the Care of Irresponsible Servants Imperils the Nation.

Society of today, with its "demoralising effect upon parents and children," was excoriated last evening by the Rev. Father MacCorry before a large audience in the Casino. His lecture was part of the fall festival and bazaar held for the benefit of the Paulist Fathers' Home for Boys.

"Mothers of the dark continents of the world show their love for their children by throwing them to the crocodiles," he said, "but more children have been sacrificed to the jaws of social dissipation in this beautiful land of ours than ever were thrown to the crocodiles of the Ganges.

"Mothers leave their children to be brought up by irresponsible servants, never knowing or caring for their physical, mental, or moral welfare. This, more than many evils of our country, tends towards its ruin."

LIFE CREW RESCUES LAUNCHES

High Waves Disable Gasoline Craft, Which Are Later Towed Ashore by Surf Boats.

Capt. Charles Carland of the life saving station at the mouth of the Chicago river was kept busy yesterday assisting three gasoline launches and their occupants, which became disabled in the heavy sea.

The first boat picked up was the Surf, in which were Arthur Wilcox, 1630 Humboldt street, and his brother Raymond. When they left the harbor at 11 o'clock they were warned by Capt. Carland. An hour later he saw distress signals a mile south and the life boat went out and brought the Surf into the harbor.

In succession the crew then towed in several other launches.

Attorney for Candidates to Ask for Ruling on Votes Marked "Void."

PLAN BIG JEWISH ORGAN.

Organization for Aid of Race Will Include All Parts of Country.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, Nov. 11.

Abraham S. Gilbert, law partner of Attorney General Julius S. Mayer, counsel for the majority of the candidates on the republican state ticket, will ask Supreme Court Justice McLean tomorrow to pass on the question of whether ballots marked "void" cast in this county at the recent election were really void and whether or not ballots marked "protested" shall be counted.

Republicans to Fight for More Offices.

Similar applications will be made tomorrow under Gilbert's direction in Kings, Queens, and Richmond counties.

The orders if granted will be served on the chairmen of the different boards of canvassers before the canvass, that ballots the Supreme court shall determine are legal can be counted.

These actions will be brought, it is understood, in behalf of the republican state candidates as individuals except Gov.-elect Hughes.

Notwithstanding this move, republicans are inclined to believe that the county canvassing of the state vote on Tuesday will not materially change the result. They have no figures with which to justify the hope that any candidates except Hughes have been elected.

Republicans throughout the state are surprised at the result of the election. Within two years Roosevelt's plurality of 176,000 and Higgins' plurality of 80,000 have been obliterated. Republicans do not hesitate to admit that Hughes was elected by Democratic votes.

It became known today that it was with great difficulty that President Roosevelt was prevented from entering the state during the campaign and making a number of speeches for the republican ticket. This secret was carefully guarded until today.

The president's concern became so marked over the result that he determined to go on the platform and urge voters to stand by the republican ticket. It was only at the last moment that the president was induced to consent to Secretary Root speaking for him.

At the first meeting of the American Jewish committee at the Hotel Savoy today it was voted to raise $100,000 to rebuild the Jewish synagogue and educational buildings which were wrecked in the San Francisco earthquake and fire. The committee is the outgrowth of the committee of fifteen recently appointed by Judge Mayer Sulzberger of Philadelphia to look into the matter of Jewish organization and consider the problems affecting the welfare of the Jewish race. A member of the executive committee said after the meeting:

Jews to Organize Great Relief Body.

"The committee does not wish to interfere with the work of any similar body. Our object is to have a permanent organization to deal with just such problems as the Kisheneff massacre and the condition of the Jews in Russia. We wish to do away with the temporary relief committees, and mean to organize 300,000 male adult Jews throughout the United States into one effective body. With such an organization and membership I believe it possible to raise $1,000,000 cash in a week's time."

The officers of the committee are: President, Judge Mayer Sulzberger of Philadelphia; vice presidents, Judge Julian Mack, Chicago, and Isador Newman, New Orleans; treasurer, Elias Michael, St. Louis; secretary, Prof. Joseph Jacobs of New York. The executive committee consists of Cyrus Sulzberger, Prof. Morris Loeb, E. W. Lewinstein, J. L. Magnes, Louis Marshall, all of New York; Henry Cutler of Providence, Dr. Cyrus Adler of Washington, Adolf Kraus of Chicago, and the Rev. Dr. Jacob Worsanger of San Francisco.

In a squalid room in a resort called the Criterion, in the heart of the "tenderloin" district, the terribly disfigured body of a handsome young mulatto woman was found today. She had not been positively identified late tonight. The woman's throat was cut and she had been beaten by her murderer. Her face, neck, and chest were frightfully lacerated from blows, apparently from a man's fists. Robbery was apparently the motive, as the pockets in the woman's clothes had been rifled. In the room was a penknife covered with blood.

Woman Murdered in Resort; Robbery Motive.

The proprietor of the place said the woman when she registered on Wednesday told him she was from Washington and was expecting the arrival of her husband. She subsequently was noticed at the place with a negro.

The proprietor, the housekeeper, and a waiter were arrested as witnesses.

All corn and grain have been eliminated from the diet of the four Cape Buffalo cows in the Central park menagerie in an effort to coax the stork to pay a visit to their paddock. There have not been any young buffaloes of the African kind in the park for several years and Director Smith hit upon a scheme which he thinks will overcome the deficiency. If successful, it will show how the lack of youngsters in a community may be done away with by easy treatment. The director is confident of winning out, because his theory is based upon a long observation of many animals under his charge.

Thinks Starchy Food Cause of Race Suicide.

In substance his theory is that the stork likes to visit those homes where eggs and meat are the principal diet and becomes shy when the food contains much tapioca, candies, and fats.

A meeting for organization will be held under the auspices of the proposed national society for the promotion of industrial education at Cooper Union next Friday night. Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Massachusetts Institute for Technology, will preside.

Will Work to Promote Industrial Education.

The objects of the proposed society are to bring prominently to public attention the importance of industrial education as a factor in the industrial development of the United States; to provide opportunities for the study and discussion of the problem; and to assist in other ways in the establishment of institutions for industrial training.

President Roosevelt has written a letter to Dr. Pritchett in which he told of the great interest he has in the proposed action.

Mrs. Estelle Bristol, a young colored woman, was arrested today charged with attempting to burn a five story tenement house in West One Hundred and Forty-ninth street Saturday night. The other tenants of the structure discovered the fire before it had gained any headway, and it was put out before it had done much damage.

Woman Fires Tenement "to See People Run."

The police say the woman told them she had started the fire because she "wanted to see the people run out."

The young man who was arrested on suspicion of his being implicated in several incendiary fires on the upper west side early last Friday was committed to Bellevue hospital for examination as to his sanity today.

ney General Moody, who has directed Assistant Harr to intervene and bring the case to the higher court in order that the constitutionality of the law may be judicially established.

Moody "Points with Pride."

Attorney General Moody is proud of the record the administration has made in behalf of labor.

"In the first place," he says, "the laboring man has just the same interest as any other man in good and wholesome general laws and in honest and efficient administration. Whatever is sound in legislation and good in administration benefits the laboring man as it benefits all other persons in the community.

"Under our scheme of government the relations between a man who is employed to work and a man who employs him in the main are in the keeping of the state in which he lives. The national government can exercise no control over them.

"If we were to make a comparison between states that are constantly under republican rule and those that are constantly under democratic rule we should discover that the legislation of the republican states in manifold ways has cared for the health, safety, education, and general betterment of conditions of the worker, but the legislation of the democratic states has been conspicuously silent on these subjects.

"Now and then there are instances where the national government has the power and responsibility. It has plenary power over commerce which is transmitted between states and with foreign nations. And that is the great and increasing part of the commerce of the country.

Recalls Safety Coupler Law.

"Some years ago a law was enacted requiring railroads to equip their engines and cars with automatic couplers so that they might be joined together without a trainman incurring the risk he did when taking his place between cars to effect a coupling. The law provided that any one who was injured by the failure of a railroad to provide this safety appliance should have grounds to recover damages.

"Doubts as to the proper interpretation of this law arose. A man by the name of Johnson received an injury through the failure of a railroad to provide automatic couplers and brought an action to recover damages. The verdict was against him in the Circuit court, and that verdict was sustained by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

"The case was taken to the Supreme court. There Attorney General Knox filed a petition that the government might intervene for the purpose of supporting the law in what was regarded as its proper interpretation. That petition was granted.

"Subsequently a brief was filed by the solicitor general and Attorney General Knox's successor. The case was orally argued by the solicitor general.

"The result was a reversal of the judgment of the courts below by a strong and clear interpretation of the law by unanimous judgment of the Supreme court.

"Since that time there has been little difficulty in enforcing the law. The government has taken a keen interest in its enforcement. Since the decision in this case it has begun 154 criminal proceedings containing 556 different counts against about seventy-five different railroads in fifty-nine judicial districts of the United States.

Ninety-three Suits Bring Convictions.

"Ninety-three of these cases have resulted in convictions, and I believe it is true that there has been no failure in any case yet tried. Ninety-nine cases are still pending and will be tried with all reasonable speed.

"It has been said sometimes that these cases were brought in great plenty just before this election. Large numbers have been brought within recent times, but no larger numbers than were brought long before.

"Eighty-two cases have been brought during the present year, but then seventy-two cases were brought during 1905. It is true that thirty-four cases were brought during October, but then thirty-nine cases were brought during the month of October, 1905.

"The fact is that cases have been brought whenever evidence was presented to the department of justice which would justify proceedings without any regard to whether an election was pending or not.

"Turn for a moment to something congress did at its last session. It enacted an employers' liability act, applicable to employés of railroads engaged in interstate commerce. That act gave remedy to any one injured by any defect in any part of a railroad system or by the negligence of any agents or employés; abolished what is known as the doctrine of common employment, and gave to an injured person the right to recover, although he himself had been negligent, provided his negligence was less than that of the railroad.

Question Law's Constitutionality.

"It has come to my knowledge that it is the purpose of some defendants to claim that this law is beyond the constitutional power of congress, and therefore void. Accordingly, following the precedent set by my predecessor, I have asked and obtained leave to appear in the trial court for the purpose of arguing for the constitutionality and true interpretation of this law.

"The national government limits the hours of laborers and mechanics in its own employ everywhere. So far as I know this law has been rigidly observed. Moreover, the law provides that all contractors who are engaged on works of the United States shall give to their laborers and mechanics an eight hour day.

"It must be confessed that this law has not been enforced as rigidly as it ought to have been. President Roosevelt, who has an uncomfortable way of finding out abuses, discovered it and directed that the law should be rigidly enforced by all of the executive departments, and violations of it reported to the department of justice. The result has been that, although for many years only one case was reported for prosecution, within a few months more than 200 cases have been dispatched from Washington to various judicial districts throughout the country for prosecution, and many more are to follow.

"I think the workingman has had a just grievance in the failure of the government to enforce this law properly, but I believe he may rest assured that from this time forth every contractor on works of the United States will be compelled to observe the eight hour law at his peril."

PRESIDENT AND HIS PARTY ENJOYING TRIP TO PANAMA.

Wireless Messages Received at Washington Tell of Fine Weather—Everything Is Going Well.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—According to wireless messages received from the battleship Louisiana, President Roosevelt and party are experiencing fine weather and are greatly enjoying the trip to Panama.

One message received over night was sent from the ship Saturday at 8 p. m., and was as follows:

"At 8 p. m., latitude 28.27 north, longitude 74. Weather fine."

This would indicate that at that hour the squadron was about one hundred and fifty miles east of Jacksonville.

Another message was picked up at 4:58 a. m. Sunday by the station at Dry Tortugas, Fla., reading as follows:

"Weather excellent. Everything going well. Louisiana and convoys steaming southward in column. The president and Mrs. Roosevelt are greatly enjoying the trip, spending a great deal of time on deck."

HETTY GREEN PREDICTS WAR BETWEEN TRUSTS AND PEOPLE

Richest Woman Prophesies That When Full Realization of Monopoly Evils Comes Blood Surely Will Flow.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hetty Green, the richest woman in the United States, would hardly be expected to be a trust buster. Yet Mrs. Green is against the trusts. She thinks them as iniquitous as lawyers. And when Mrs. Green says trusts are as bad as lawyers it is the limit of her condemnation.

"There is going to be a revolution in this country," said Mrs. Green today. "The people are going to revolt against the oppressions of the trusts. There will be a deluge, and these streets will run with blood.

"The people are gradually finding out about the trusts. When they realize fully how they are ruining the chances of the people there will be an outbreak."

WAR ON STANDARD OPENS THIS WEEK

Government's Petition for Writ of Injunction Ready for the Court.

70 COMPANIES ARE NAMED

Paper Is Remarkable Arraignment of Trust; Prosecution of Officials Later.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—The epoch making prosecution of the Standard Oil trust by the government will be filed this week. On Wednesday next Messrs. Kellogg and Morrison, general counsel for the government, will file a petition for a writ of injunction against the Standard Oil company before the federal court of the Eighth circuit. This petition will be directed against the seventy companies which make up the trust.

Two or three months will be required by them to make their answers and by spring the administration is confident the petition will be granted. The trust will appeal to the Supreme court at once and it is not expected the matter finally will be settled before the term of court next fall.

Petition Ready Today.

Attorney General Moody and Messrs. Kellogg and Morrison were in conference today going over the final proof of the petition. It will be ready by tomorrow afternoon and will be filed by Mr. Kellogg next Wednesday. On the same day Mr. Moody will make public a statement explaining what the government is doing.

The selection of St. Louis is due to its central position in the country and to the high character of the men who make up the judicial bench of that circuit. They are Judges Sanborn, Vandeventer, Adams, and Hook. Three of these judges handled the Northern Securities case, which resulted in a dissolution of the combination controlling the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads.

Go After Officials Later.

The government has done nothing up to this time in regard to the criminal prosecution of the men involved in the alleged illegal steps connected with the formation of the Standard trust. This will come later. It is a remarkable fact that all of the men responsible for it are alive—the Rockefellers, Rogers, Archbold and two others.

The government's petition is believed to make mention of this fact. The petition describes the details of the preliminary organization and the successive stages in the development of the corporation. It is a remarkable paper and presents facts showing crimes committed by the Standard which will make the people determined to bring about its dissolution.

GIVE UP HOPE FOR SHAFTER; SPECIALIST ABANDONS CASE.

Attending Physician Issues Bulletin Saying Change Must Come Soon if Patient's Life Is to Be Saved.

Bakersfield, Cal., Nov. 11.—With his life hanging by a thread, Maj. Gen. William R. Shafter, retired, is making a heroic struggle against death at the ranch of Capt. William H. McKittrick, his son-in-law, twenty miles from Bakersfield. Dr. A. Schaefer of Bakersfield made the following statement concerning the condition of Maj. Gen. Shafter at 5 o'clock:

"The general is constantly growing worse. He is approaching a general breakdown. Unless a radical change occurs within the next two hours all hope must be abandoned."

His temperature is 102.8 and his pulse 140.

J. W. Frye, superintendent of the McKittrick ranch, gave out the following bulletin at 9:10 o'clock tonight:

"Gen. Shafter's condition is alarming at present and the crisis is about to be reached. We will know in an hour his fate."

Doctors and members of the family are at the bedside.

Dr. Hertzstein of San Francisco arrived at 2 o'clock this morning. After a consultation he came to the conclusion that his efforts would be of no avail and returned a few hours later to San Francisco.

A supply of oxygen, medicine, and a trained nurse were ordered from San Francisco. These arrived in Bakersfield at 10 o'clock tonight.

Messages of sympathy and anxiety from friends in all parts of the United States have been pouring into Bakersfield.

For the last six days the general has been confined to his bed, but not until Friday night was it realized that acute pneumonia had developed.

MARIE CHAPEL SECURED BY IMMANUEL BAPTIST CHURCH.

Will Be Utilized by the Rev. Johnston Myers in Fighting Vice in South Side Levee District.

Marie Chapel, at Twenty-third place and Wentworth avenue, the largest institutional church on the south side, was taken over yesterday by Immanuel Baptist church.

It is the intention of the Rev. Johnston Myers, pastor of Immanuel church, to increase the work of the chapel and make it a power in fighting the vice of the levee district.

The chapel was built by Harlow N. Higinbotham at a cost of $40,000, and has been conducted by the Methodist church. Because of trouble with the property owners of the neighborhood the Methodists became tired of the task.

"This is the most important work Immanuel church ever has taken up," said Dr. Myers. "I intend to give it my personal attention and build the chapel up into a great religious center."

HEALTH OF ARMY BETTER.

LOWER MORTALITY RATE SHOWN IN 1905 ANNUAL REPORT.

Surgeon General O'Reilly Furnishes Statistics on Work of Medical Department, Indicating Improvement in the Conditions, Both in the Home and Foreign Service—Comparison with European Soldiers Places Yankee in Good Position.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—The report of Surgeon General R. M. O'Reilly on the work of the medical department of the army in 1905 has just been published. It shows in great detail the condition of that department and compares, as far as possible, the conditions in the different armies of the world.

The report shows that the sickness and death rate of the American army, both at home and abroad, and of the native troops in the Philippines is much lower than in 1904.

The comparison with other armies in some respects is inaccurate, as the United States and Great Britain are the only countries whose statistics include that part of the army serving outside the home country, and many of the countries have a low death rate because their sick are promptly discharged or retired and die out of the service instead of on the sick report.

England's Death Rate Highest.

The British army ranks first in the death rate, with 7.16 deaths per thousand men, the American army having the next highest, 6.28. The Prussian army has the lowest rate, 2 per thousand men.

An important factor in judging the relative healthfulness of the different armies is the average duration of each case of sickness, the American army excelling all others except the Dutch and Bavarian. The average duration of each case in the United States army was less than one-half that of the British and a little more than one-half that of the Spanish army.

The death rate in 1905 was much better than for the previous year, there being 368 deaths from all causes, equivalent to 6.28 per thousand, as compared with 6.75 for the previous year and 7.16 for the six year period.

As a cause of death, tuberculosis led with a rate of 0.68, a slight increase as compared with the previous year; pneumonia was second, rate 0.32, as compared with 0.65 for 1904; typhoid fever dropped from 0.33 to 0.29, and diarrheal diseases from 0.30 for 1904 to 0.20.

Philippine Rates Lower.

Regarding the health of the troops in the Philippines, the report says that all the rates except the death rate for disease were lower than in 1904. Tuberculosis alone caused nearly 50 per cent of the discharges and more than 20 per cent of the deaths from disease.

All the rates except the death rate were considerably lower for the Filipino than for American troops. The death rate total and disease only was, however, much higher among the Filipinos. Undue prevalence among the Filipinos of tuberculosis and beriberi is given as the explanation for this.

FIERCE CAT HIS NIGHTMARE.

Baltimore Man Awakens in Room to Find Crazed Animal Clawing—Kills It After Fight.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—With his face and hands a mass of scars and scratches, Louis Weimer told today of a fierce fight he had with a big black cat that attacked him in bed. Weimer left the window of his room open. He was awakened by the cat pouncing upon him. The animal bit and clawed his face, until finally he leaped from bed, caught it by the tail, and hurled it into a corner of the room. Turning on the light, Weimer took his revolver from a bureau drawer, and, as the animal made another spring at him, shot it and threw it out the window.

MRS. SAGE BARS RICH "BEGGARS."

Widow of Multimillionaire Will Give Only to Worthy Charities.

SAYS TASK IS ONEROUS.

Deserving Individuals, Not Endowed Institutions, Come Within Scope.

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Reports that the widow of Russell Sage meant to use many millions to endow a home for aged teachers and a fund to educate young men for the church drew from Mrs. Sage today the first definite statement as to her wishes and purposes. She announces that the thousands who have besieged her in the importunate quest for money—thousands who stretch from college presidents to ordinary street beggars—have wasted their time. She will have none of them. Further she is loath to endow a church institution, feeling that the absence of need brings the lack of activity for good.

Mrs. Sage means to distribute, and within a short time, evidently, the bulk of the fortune her husband left to her, but she says in positive fashion she will give, as far as possible, to individuals and those she knows to be worthy, avoiding institutions.

How gigantic is the task she has set herself Mrs. Sage undoubtedly knows, for she says simply enough that the time is short. Mrs. Sage herself knows that it will take a long time to find the individually deserving without acting through the agency of institutions, but her words show she calmly has taken up the task.

Will Give to Worthy.

"No one except myself knows what disposal I shall make of the millions Mr. Sage left to me," she said, "and as yet I have no settled plans as to how much I shall give or to whom I shall give.

"I do not as a rule believe in endowments. I look on churches and other endowed institutions as absolutely dead. Their endowments put them beyond the necessity for work, thus making them indifferent and negligent along the lines where Christian institutions should do the most good.

"Young churches with poor congregations struggling to meet payments, and institutions of any sort devoted to the care of the ill and needy, appeal to me, and I am going to do all I can for such as these. In doing so I feel I shall be carrying out my husband's wishes.

"My desire, however, is to help individuals rather than institutions or associations, and that is what I shall do. Not those who beg, not those whom I never have seen or heard of, and who have no more delicacy or sense of propriety than to write me the most importunate demands for money. O, no, not that class of individuals, but men or women in the lower or higher walks of life, who, for no fault of their own, are so unfortunate as to need assistance and too proud to ask. Such I deem it a privilege and sacred duty to assist."

Cites Example of Deserving.

"I know many such and will give you an example: There is a young man employed by one of the railway companies in New York. His position is humble, his pay small, and his wife is a hopeless invalid. This young man has been pinching and saving for years to buy a home in the country. He was kind to Mr. Sage, and has been attentive and polite to me in many ways. He never asked me to help him, but I am going to pay for his home. Along the highways and byways I shall seek other such cases, but I have no intention of giving to promiscuous beggars."

UNREST IN CUBA OMEN OF TROUBLE

Political Situation Nearing Fever Heat and Anything Is Possible.

KEEP TROOPS ON ALERT.

American Officers Send Men Patrolling Country Ready for Emergencies.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
Copyright: 1906: By the New York Herald.]

HAVANA, Nov. 11.—The political situation is getting hot. The liberals not only are "wiggin" Gov. Magoon for his delay in turning the moderates out of office, but are falling out among themselves.

The campaign to elect a successor to Palma has begun, and as expected the election will be held next June and the liberals are sure of success. The contest for the nomination will grow rapidly in intensity. Americans, conservatives and many Cubans who are among the rivals on to precipitate trouble were delighted by the demonstrations made last night in the street by the faction which favors José Miguel Gomez for president and tonight by other liberals supporting Senator Alfredo Zayas.

The issue is not being made solely on the color line, for both aspirants are white, although the negroes mostly are for Gomez.

On the other hand, Juan Gualberto Gomez, their natural leader, is for Zayas, who has the support of the older liberals, while the younger men seem to prefer his rival.

Factions Grow Boisterous.

They nearly created a riot last night by shouting: "Death to Estrada Palma and all moderates!" "Long life to José Miguel Gomez." Col. José Estrampes met this, pistol in hand, in front of the Inglaterra, with a cry of "Down with the niggers!" Friends carried him off bodily to save his life amid cries of "Death to Estrampes! We'll have no jobs or quarter like a Santo Domingo," set up by the mob. The police had hard work to prevent serious trouble.

A splendid festival in honor of Dr. Alfredo Zayas, chief of the liberal party, in the San Juan de Dios park," was announced in flaming posters on dead walls by daylight today. These evidences of the feelings of the rank and file of the liberal party are significant. The leaders equally are restive and are pestering Magoon daily with demands for office, which are growing more and more insistent. They are likened to schoolboys trying to see how far they can go with the new master. What they say among themselves they will do to him is awful, but when they get before him they become less blustering. It is predicted they will keep on until somebody gets spanked.

At a recent meeting of liberal leaders it actually was proposed that an armed body of 30 should escort a committee demanding that the offices be turned over to them by the American government and await the result in the courtyard of the palace. The idea was discussed for some time but rejected, as the old Spanish custom is not up to date enough for the Cubans.

American Troops Active.

United States army officers who know of this wondered what Magoon would have done. They know what they will be ready to do if there is any foolishness out in the country. At present it is quiet everywhere. Nevertheless, Maj. Rumbough has sent the Fourteenth battery on five days' march to Punta del Rio and the Seventeenth and Eighteenth mountain batteries on long expeditions about the island. The object is twofold—to show the Cubans the Americans can penetrate any section, however rough the country, with big guns, and to get the soldiers hardened for a possible campaign.

Gen. Bell has a plan to do likewise with the cavalry and infantry. Bases of supplies have been established in thirty odd garrisons at convenient distances apart and forces will be maneuvered as if in actual warfare. This already has begun. It is denied that there is any expectation of trouble, but it is quite evident that the alleged purpose of exercising the troops is not the sole one.

Ex-U. S. Officer Startles Cubans.

Maj. J. C. Rumbo has astounded the Cubans by arresting a policeman. The major is a retired army officer who has not laid aside the military courtesy that distinguished his former comrades in the field and parlor. It was called into play yesterday on his way from his home in the Vedado to a law office in Cuba street. A crowded street car had stopped to let off a passenger at J street, and as on the rear platform pressed together to make way for a woman with a small child in her arms, a poor Cuban woman with pinched face and shabby garb. Just then a mulatto policeman swung on to the car, shoving the woman aside. As he attempted to enter out shot the major's right arm and his hand closed on that policeman's throat, shoving his back and allowing the woman to pass. Then the fellow got on the car and glared at the major, who said nothing, while the other passengers, noting the angry official's handy club and revolver, held their breaths.

"Well," exclaimed the mulatto, "do you know how to talk Spanish?"

"I do, you brute," was the reply, "and I would inform you you are under arrest, and you will go with me to the station house."

"Why should I?" asked the policeman, beginning to weaken under the cold eye and authoritative manner of his captor. "Who are you that you can arrest an officer of the municipality?"

"An American officer, who proposes to teach one of Havana's policemen to respect women. You stand inside the car until I tell you where to get off with me."

Hales Police Bully to Station.

Other Americans aboard, attracted by the incident, came out to help, but seeing the major had it well in hand, retired after treating him with extragrant respect and addressing him in the most obsequious tones. This unusual homage from the Yankees settled it, and the uniformed prisoner became silent and evidently alarmed, but the major was not happy. He did not know what to do with the policeman, having had no previous experience with the police. He had no idea where prisoners were taken, and did not like the particular one.

"Get off here," commanded the major when the car reached the Hotel Telegrapho corner. "Now, stand against that wall."

The prisoner obeyed, while the major signaled to the curb and asked a cabman to drive them to the nearest police station. This was in Salutes street. While the major's statements were being taken down at the desk the captain, who was unknown to the major, came in. He approved the course taken, saying that, as a whole, the police of Havana were as good men as can be had for the poor pay, and that the prisoner was better than the average, and that if sent to jail a worse man might be appointed in his place. The major explained he did not want the man displaced, but reprimanded and fined, so as to make him a better policeman. This eventually was done.

"Imagine that happening with a New York policeman," remarked a friend to the major tonight.

"I don't like to," replied the major, dryly.

ITALY FEARS AMERICAN INROAD.

Order Placed in This Country for Armor Plate Brings Protest Down on Premier Giolitti.

ROME, Nov. 11.—A committee from the city of Terni, headed by the mayor of that place, has come to Rome to protest against the placing of an order for armor plate for an Italian man-of-war with the Midvale Steel company of Pennsylvania, and has been received by Premier Giolitti. The premier explained that the government was desirous of protecting and favoring national production, but not against the interest of the state, and that national production must be itself in condition to stand foreign competition.

Married to Get a Furnished Home, and May Not Be Married After All.

MRS BURNETT YOUNG TIFFANY

In answer to a suit filed by creditors of Burnett Y. Tiffany of New York, the declaration was made that the $80,000 worth of furnishings in the Tiffany home is the property of Mrs. Tiffany, and that it is such in accordance with a pre-nuptial contract in which Mrs. Tiffany agreed to the marriage only on condition that the furnished home be given her. The Appellate division of the New York Supreme court sends the case back to a lower court on the ground that it has not been shown that Mrs. Tiffany is the legal wife of Burnett Y. Tiffany, her Rhode Island divorce being questioned, or that Tiffany had been legally divorced from his first wife. Tiffany is a son of the late Charles L. Tiffany, who was the head of the New York jewelry house of Tiffany.

POLICE DIE IN BOMB TRAP

THREE RUSSIANS KILLED, FOUR WOUNDED, IN TIFLIS.

Explosion in Unoccupied House Where Officials Are Lured Shakes Whole City — Revolutionary Documents Found Under Bed—When Curtain Is Drawn Aside Explosive Is Set Off—Electoral Committees Suppressed and More Exiled.

TIFLIS, Nov. 11.—A deafening bomb explosion occurred in Pethanski street at an early hour this morning, while the police were making a search of an unoccupied house. The noise of the explosion was audible for a great distance and the entire city was shaken. Three policemen were killed and four wounded.

The police discovered some revolutionary proclamations under a bed in one of the rooms in this house. They then went to a window and pulled aside a curtain. There was a flash of blue flame, followed immediately by the explosion, the force of which was so great that the body of a sergeant, one of the men killed, was hurled over a neighboring roof. The whole upper portion of the house fell in.

It is apparent that a snare had been arranged and the police lured into it. The police received a tip to search this particular house, which is located in the Tartar quarter of the city and which has not been inhabited since the Tartar-Armenian massacres of last year.

Electoral Committees Suppressed

ODESSA, Nov. 11.—All the electoral committees in this city and in the provinces have been suppressed and their functions have been transferred to the town councils. The arrangements made by these committees have been canceled and their official posters have been removed from the walls of Odessa by the police. These measures, which are intended to prevent the mass of the people from taking part in the campaign for the election of members to the lower house of parliament, have produced a painful impression here.

The students of Odessa universally elected their electoral committee with the following poll: Social revolutionist candidates, 712; social democrats, 777; laborites, 188; constitutional democrats, 167; government supporters, 317; Zionists, 105.

Exile 104 for Minor Offenses.

ODESSA, Nov. 11.—According to advices received here from Yekaterinoslav and Kishinev, 104 men today were sent into exile for minor political offenses. Local governors are dismissing officials for refusing to leave the ranks of the constitutional democratic party, and are promising promotion, with the alternative of banishment, if the officials will attach themselves to parties friendly to the government.

DIRIGIBLE AIRSHIP IS WRECKED

Deutsch Machine Suffers Mishap When Guide Rope Becomes Entangled in Tree.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The new great dirigible airship Ville de Paris, owned by M. Deutsch, has been wrecked at Sartrouville. The guide rope became entangled in the treetops in the forest of St. Germain and broke. The airship became unmanageable, and, the gas holder being torn, it finally descended in a field. The motor and car were smashed. Nobody was hurt.

HAAKON AND QUEEN IN ENGLAND

Arrive at Portsmouth on Royal Yacht with Crown Prince, to Be Guests of Edward and Alexandra.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Nov. 11.—The royal yacht Victoria and Albert, with King Haakon of Norway, Queen Maud, and Crown Prince Olaf on board, anchored off Spithead at a late hour tonight. King Haakon and his family will be the guests of King Edward and Queen Alexandra at Windsor castle during their stay in England.

HERCULANEUM REDIVIVUS

EXCAVATION TO BE BEGUN SOON BY ENGLISH PROFESSOR.

Charles Waldstein of Cambridge Will Arrive Shortly in Rome to Take Up Work of Restoring Ancient City Buried by Vesuvius 2,000 Years Ago — Italian Government, Roosevelt, Edward, and Kaiser Assisting in the Undertaking.

ROME, Nov. 11.—Prof. Charles Waldstein, professor of fine arts in King's college, Cambridge, England, will arrive shortly to perfect an agreement with the Italian government concerning the carrying out of his project for the excavation of the ancient city of Herculaneum. The professor's plans have been accepted by the government on condition that the participation of foreign countries in the work be only under the form of private contributions, and that there be no foreign official interference.

Prof. Waldstein has secured the active cooperation of King Victor Emmanuel as president of his organization as well as that of Emperor William, King Edward, and President Roosevelt.

The excavation of Herculaneum will be a gigantic enterprise. The work of digging up the ancient city was begun by King Charles III. in 1738. It was resumed under the direction of the Italian government in 1868. It has always been attended with the greatest difficulty, as over the ruins of the ancient city stands the town of Resina, with 20,000 inhabitants. The location of Resina has often made it necessary to abandon the research work.

The excavation of Herculaneum will be a far more difficult task than was the uncovering of Pompeii. The latter city was covered only by the ashes of Vesuvius, but the former lies beneath layers of hardened lava, which must be cut away with much hard labor and keen edged tools.

Vesuvius Growing Quieter.

NAPLES, Nov. 11.—The column of smoke and ashes above Mount Vesuvius diminished materially today. Naples is entirely free from smoke. The wind is blowing from the east.

Slight detonations were heard today, but the people are reassured. In long processions, carrying images of the Madonna and the saints, they are reentering their villages.

In the churches the people returned thanks for their escape.

Ashes from Vesuvius are falling as far distant as Avellino, eighty miles away.

Prof. Matteucci, director of the royal observatory on Mount Vesuvius, has been called to Naples by the prefect. He confirms his statement of Saturday that he does not consider the present disturbance the beginning of a new eruption.

ROBBED AND SLAIN ON TRAIN.

German Dentist Attacked by Unknown Man, Who Escapes with Watch and Money.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

HAMBURG, Nov. 11.—Dr. Claussen, a dentist, was the sole occupant of a compartment of a suburban train yesterday until an unknown man entered the Grossflottbek station. He left the coach at Kleinflottbek three minutes later. In the interval he murderously assaulted Dr. Claussen with an iron bar and robbed him of a watch and money. Trainmen found Claussen fatally hurt. He was able, however, briefly to narrate the story of the attack before he died. The murderer escaped.

BOER LEADS ROBBER BAND.

Farmers and Traders in Orange River District Raided by Gang of Armed Rebels.

CAPE TOWN, Nov. 11.—Advices received here from Upington, on the Orange river, say that the Boer raider, Ferreira, and his followers continue to intimidate the farmers of that region and have captured some traders and a few other persons. The raiders were thirty miles north of Upington on Saturday, when they were reported, and accompanied by a number of armed natives.

ALFONSO IS SAFE; NO ASSASSINATION

Mysterious Explosion Leads to Rumor of Attempt to Kill King.

CAUSES PANIC IN CHURCH.

Report of Death of Young Ruler Telegraphed All Over World Before It Is Denied.

[BY CABLE TO LA PRENSA OF BUENOS AYRES AND THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MADRID, Nov. 11.—The explosion of several cartridges, mysteriously placed under the altar of the Church of St. Peter today, caused a serious panic among the worshipers and gave rise to rumors in the capital later in the day that an attempt had been made to assassinate King Alfonso. The rumor of the attempt on the life of the king was telegraphed all over the world before it was contradicted.

During the service of the mass a Franciscan preached the sermon. While he was exhorting the people the explosion of the missiles came without warning.

Puts Congregation in Panic.

There was a panic in the church instantly and the worshipers made a rush to escape into the street. This resulted in a congestion at the doors, in which many persons were thrown down and trampled upon by those who pressed on in the rear. Before the victims could be extricated, several of them were seriously hurt. Many women fainted, while others became hysterical, their screams adding to the terror in the church.

An investigation has been started, but as yet there is not the slightest clew which would lead to the discovery of the person who placed the cartridges under the altar or of the motive for the act.

King Receives Premier.

Gen. Domingues, the premier, was received in audience by King Alfonso, his majesty signing a number of decrees. Afterward Gen. Domingues, who has entirely recovered from his recent illness, presided at a meeting. He said his conference with the sovereign had been entirely satisfactory.

On the occasion of the farewell to representatives of the Catalan Catholics, who have been here several days at a congress, many young people, Carlists and reactionaries, made a demonstration at the railway station this afternoon, crying "Down with liberty," "Down with the law of association," "Long life to Maura," and "Long life to the Catholic church."

The procession was moving to the center of town when the police interfered and dispersed the shouters. Similar measures were taken with another demonstration created by the liberals, who had national flags and cried: "Long live liberty," "Down with Maura." Fearing the formation of new processions, the police have taken extreme precautions to avoid a clash between liberal and clerical elements.

SPAIN FRIENDLY, SAYS VATICAN.

Rumors of Rupture with Alfonso Denied —Polish Question Bothers German Relations.

ROME, Nov. 11.—The vatican denies the reports predicting a rupture between Spain and the holy see. The vatican authorities declare that the differences between them and Spain have been much exaggerated by the Spanish liberal press, backed by French newspapers, and that negotiations between Rome and Madrid are proceeding in a most friendly manner.

It is pointed out that all the members of the present Spanish cabinet are strong Catholics.

The situation between the vatican and Germany over the Polish question is becoming more critical daily. It is even threatening to endanger the existing good relations between Berlin and the holy see.

Germany insists that the vatican must help it in repressing what it considers a rebellion in Poland, but the Poles are counting on the assistance of the pope.

Pope Contradicted in Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The Matin guarantees the authenticity of a story to the effect that Mgr. Deramecourt saw the pope last summer and obtained his full and entire approbation to form cultural associations in the diocese of Soissons. The monseigneur was dumfounded when the encyclical f. bidding compliance with the law of associations was read to the French episcopate. Mgr. Deramecourt has died since this reading.

ROMAN REDS MEET; DISPERSED.

Attempt to Commemorate Hanging of Chicago Anarchists Broken Up by Police—Many Arrests Made.

ROME, Nov. 11.—Local anarchists today attempted a demonstration to commemorate the hanging of the Chicago anarchists nineteen years ago. They were dispersed by the police and many were arrested. This demonstration coincided with the anniversary of the birth of King Victor Emmanuel.

SIMPLE SPELLERS AT WAR

STARR JORDAN'S ACTION A RAP AT "TOO MUCH MATTHEWS."

Outcome of Leland Stanford University President's Resignation May Be Divided Camp — Columbia Reformer Says He Is Not to Blame—Board Official Wants Words Like "Receive" Made Easier for Man Who Finds Them Hard to Spell.

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Whether or not real war among the "simple spellers" breaks out will depend largely upon what the executive committee of the simplified spelling board does at its regular meeting on Wednesday about the resignation of Prof. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford Jr. university. His resignation has been in the hands of Prof. Matthews of Columbia, chairman of the committee, for three weeks.

Prof. Matthews today said he believed the resignation had been caused by a misapprehension. Prof. Jordan said there was too much Matthews and too much Prof. Calvin Thomas, who is a German professor at Columbia, to suit the members of the advisory board who really wanted to advise.

Matthews Pleads Innocence.

Prof. Matthews says it is not really so, and Charles E. Sprague, a lay member and treasurer of the executive committee, today said some one had to do the work, anyhow.

"I don't want to discuss the matter at all," said Prof. Matthews. "I don't believe in entering into personalities in an affair like this. I have nothing to say. But if you will read the announcement of the simplified spelling board anent the 300 words which President Jordan says were changed, you will see the words are merely those which for years have been published in the dictionaries as variants. We simply decided which form was simpler, and so stated in the announcement."

Treasurer Sprague, who admits the funds of the board are contributed mostly by Andrew Carnegie, said:

"I don't think Prof. Jordan is right. All that we have done was to set forth our ideas of the proper choice in words used as variants. The board has thirty or forty members scattered about all over the United States, Canada, and England. We can't get at them all for their opinions. That is what the executive committee is for.

Should Be "Receve," "Beleve."

"The first announcement did not contain all the things that I would have liked to see in it. For instance, take words like 'receive' and 'believe.' In those words the 'i' is unnecessary and a source of bother. That 'i' offends and should be plucked out. Of course there's the rule about 'i' before 'e' except after 'c,' but you never know which is the butt end of that rule, and you're likely to make a mistake. I think that should have been one of the first things changed."

KING STARTLES CHURCH GOERS

Edward Breaks His Record for Punctuality by Miscalculating Time Needed for Walk Across Park.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—King Edward, who observes the strictest punctuality in all appointments, arrived at church late today, owing to miscalculating the time it would take to walk across Sandringham park. His majesty never enters until prayers for the king have been said. When these are over a bell rings five times and the king enters. Approaching the church this morning he discovered that the bell had stopped ringing five minutes before. He said, in an annoyed tone, to the attendant: "Dear me, I never have been so late before."

KAISER GIVES GOLF A BOOST.

Offers to Give Berlin Club Use of Grounds of Admiralty, Adjoining Royal Estate.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—The game of golf, which has attained much popularity in Germany, is likely to receive a fillip from the kaiser's offer to give the Berlin Golf club the use of the beautiful grounds of the admiralty, adjoining the royal estates at Potsdam. The place is admirably adaptable for links. The club consists almost exclusively of Americans, Britons, and a few other foreigners, most of them being members of the various embassies. It is understood the kaiser hopes to interest German officers in the game.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

BRUSSELS.—King Leopold of the Belgians is suffering from lumbago. In spite of the advice of his physician his majesty declines to go to Wiesbaden because of the approaching reopening of parliament, when an important debate regarding the Congo independent state is expected.

VALENCIA, Spain.—Gens. Roldan and Castellanes were severely wounded as a result of the explosion of a land mine during experiments which were being conducted by the military engineers.

AIX LES BAINS.—The balloon Milano, which was sent up from the Milan international exposition, has arrived here after having traveled over Mount Blanc.

CHICAGO LEADS IN PLAYGROUNDS

Supervisor for District of Columbia Eulogizes Small Park System.

BEAUTY AND UTILITY.

Athletic Field, Gymnasium, and Ice Cream at Cost Features of Up to Date Methods.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Dr. Henry S. Curtis, supervisor of playgrounds for the District of Columbia, has made a report to the commissioners in which he eulogizes the park and playground system of Chicago. He visited also New York, Boston, and Pittsburg, but finds Chicago in the lead of American cities. In his official report Dr. Curtis says:

"One of the first features to strike the eye of the visitor to one of these new parks is that it has the beauty of a park and the utility of a playground at the same time, but it is, in fact, a playground for all ages and sexes, and yet so beautiful that these little parks seem like an oasis in a Chicago prairie. Each of them is surrounded by a high iron fence, but the fence is so far concealed by trees, flowers, and shrubs that it can scarcely be seen even now from the inside, and soon it entirely will disappear.

"On entering, one is first impressed by the athletic field. On this field baseball and tennis are played during the summer, football and tennis in the fall, and in winter it is flooded for skating.

Athletic Field Feature.

"The second notable feature is the athletic field and gymnasium for men. This is also surrounded, as are each of the features of the playground, by a high fence of sharp iron pickets. This field is surrounded by what they claim are the best running tracks in the world, and which are certainly among the best. The outdoor gymnasium is large and complete. There is also a separate place for every large field event, such as putting shot, high and broad jump, and pole vaulting, etc. Not far from this is the outdoor gymnasium for women and girls, which is similarly equipped but smaller, and with more features intended for play rather than systematic exercise.

"The fourth feature is a playground for small children, also surrounded with a high iron fence, equipped with all the most improved forms of playground apparatus. In the center is a good size wading pool, which is thronged with children during the summer months. Running nearly around this is a concrete sand bin, often nearly 200 feet in length. It is covered with an awning. Around this, on a concrete platform, runs a concrete seat for mothers. This is often nearly 200 feet in length, and nearly filled during the summer months with mothers who come to put their little children in the sand while they sit on a bench and sew, or read, or watch the children.

Swimming Pool Popular.

"The fifth outdoor feature is a swimming pool. This is the most popular feature of the whole playground during the summer months. It is a concrete pool a little less than half an acre in size and ranging from three to eight feet in depth. It is surrounded by a beach of white sand, on which the bathers burrow and bask in the sun, as they do on the seashore. Around this are some 200 or 300 bathing booths. The gateway into the pool is through a showerhouse containing ten or fifteen shower baths. Every one is required to take showers before going into the pool.

"Just outside are waiting benches, where about 200 people usually are collected during the middle of the day, waiting for an opportunity to go into the pool. Each bather is given one hour, and then at the sound of the gong, he leaves the pool and another set of bathers takes possession of it. The park furnishes bathing suits, towels, and soap. It is open four days a week for men and two days for women. The pool is lighted by electric lights and is open until 9:30 every evening.

"The most notable distinctive feature of these new parks, however, is the fieldhouse. The material used in nine out of ten buildings is concrete and the roofs are green mottled tiles. On entering one is struck by the magnificent color scheme and wonderful harmonies of reds, browns, greens, and blues, and other colors which have been used in decoration. The broad entrance to the hall always contains a rack of potted plants which enlivens the interior and reminds one that they are still in the park.

Refreshments at Cost.

"At one side of the entrance is a restaurant or lunch room at which such small refreshments as soups, sandwiches, coffee, ice cream, and pie are served. All of these viands are sold at cost. A 5 cent dish of ice cream which is made by the park department is said to be the best ice cream in Chicago and is certainly delicious. So excellent is this simple lunch room that many working people in the vicinity are now going there for their lunches in place of going to other restaurants.

"Settlement workers in this neighborhood say that this little lunch room is having strong influence against saloons; that people find it a pleasant place to come and sit down and have a cup of coffee or a dish of ice cream, and that the attractive surroundings give it an advantage which the saloon does not have.

"On the other side of the entrance in a number of buildings is a branch of the Chicago Public library. I can testify for my own part that in libraries which I visited there was scarcely a vacant seat.

"At one end of the building is a gymnasium for men. This is completely equipped with the best modern apparatus, so arranged that the apparatus goes up on pulleys to the ceiling, thus leaving a clear floor for games of basket ball, indoor baseball, etc. Just off from this are the best steel lockers which can be had, five or six shower baths, and a plunging pool usually about fifteen or twenty feet in length.

Dance Halls a Peril.

"At the other end of the building there is exactly the same playground for women. Sometimes on the ground, but more often on the second floor, is a large auditorium with movable chairs which is used for public lectures or public meetings of any kind, or for dances or social gatherings.

"One of the greatest perils of South Chicago, as indeed it is in most cities, is the dance halls. These halls generally are connected with saloons and often with Turkish or Russian baths as well.

"The south park system is offering to the people of South Chicago a clean, attractive, well lighted hall which may be used for any neighborhood purpose where the best influences prevail. They already have done much to lessen the use of surrounding dance halls, and it is hoped they soon will be able to close many of them.

"The keeping of this system is fully up to the level of the plan itself. Every part of it is facitious and clean. Every piece of apparatus is tested every morning before the children are allowed in. During the summer time there are fourteen to twenty attendants in every one of these playground parks.

"Gymnasium instructors from May to November have charge of outdoor gymnasium and fields, and from November until May they have charge of indoor gymnasiums. If one may venture a criticism on this truly magnificent system it is that the gymnasts do not take active enough direction of sports in the field.

"The children's playground is much in need of a kindergartener, and the manager of the building should be a rather higher type of man and more of a social organizer than the ones who at present have charge.

"On the whole the impression which is left on a visit is one of wonder that any system with so many new and progressive features could have sprung into existence in such a brief time."

National Figure in Cruelty Crusade Will Attend Chicago Convention.

MRS H CLAY PRESTON

"ANTI-CRUELTY" A STUDY.

HUMANE ASSOCIATION WILL OPEN "SCHOOL" TO TEACH IT.

American Societies Open Annual Convention on Wednesday—Plan Open Public Meetings to Instruct in Kindness to Children and Animals—National Figures in Work to Appear—Protection of the Youth a Watchword.

Protection for children and animals will be the watchword of a broad educational campaign along humanitarian lines to be inaugurated at the thirtieth annual meeting of the American Humane association, which opens next Wednesday in Chicago.

The anti-cruelty organizations are combining to make the approaching convention the most important and far reaching held since the world's fair congress in 1893. Men and women of national repute in the movement, such as Elbridge T. Gerry of New York, Mrs. H. Clay Preston of New York, and Mrs. Caroline Earle White of Philadelphia, are among the leaders who will take part in the sessions.

Conduct "Anti-Cruelty" School.

It is planned to throw the meetings open to the public and conduct an "anti-cruelty school" during the two days the convention will be in session. The program is divided into six parts, including three sessions daily on Wednesday and Tuurday, to be preceded by an executive meeting on Tuesday morning and the convention ending with a reception in honor of the visiting delegates to be given by the Illinois Humane society Friday evening.

Discussion on the first day of the open convention will be confined to the subject of children and on the program is described as "children's day." The second day will be devoted to the presentation of a number of papers relative to various movements in the interest of compelling protection for animals.

The regular speakers will open the discussion of topics. Debate will then be thrown open to the public. In this way the promoters hope to stir interest in the humanitarian question and at the same time disseminate information concerning the treatment of children and animals.

Program Deals with Humanity.

Among the papers to be read by humanitarians are the following:

"Child Labor and Other Dangers to Childhood," Miss Jane Addams.

"The Interest and Influence of the West in Humane Work," Elbridge T. Gerry.

"Anti-Cruelty Conditions," John L. Shortall.

"The Anti-Cruelty to Animals Cause in Europe," Mrs. Caroline Earle White.

"Stock Transportation Abuses and Their Reforms," C. A. Snow.

"The Importance of Establishing Shelters for Animals," Miss Elizabeth Morris.

Dr. William O. Stillman, president of the association, has prepared an interesting report which will be given at the opening meeting.

It's the Food

True way to correct nervous troubles

(SEE BELOW.)

Nervous troubles are more often caused by improper food and indigestion than most people imagine. Even doctors sometimes overlook this fact. A man says:

"Until two years ago waffles and butter with meat and gravy were the main features of my breakfast. Finally dyspepsia came on and I found myself in a bad condition, worse in the morning than any other time. I would have a full, sick feeling in my stomach, with pains in my heart, sides and head.

"At times I would have no appetite for days, then I would feel ravenous, never satisfied when I did eat and so nervous I felt like shrieking at the top of my voice. I lost flesh badly and hardly knew which way to turn until one day I bought a box of Grape-Nuts food to see if I could eat that. I tried it without telling the doctor, and liked it fine; made me feel as if I had something to eat that was satisfying and still I didn't have that heaviness that I had felt after eating any other food.

"I had it drank any coffee then in five weeks I kept on with the Grape-Nuts and in a month and a half I had gained 15 pounds, could eat almost anything I wanted, didn't feel badly after eating and my nervousness was all gone. It's a pleasure to be well again."

VOLIVA SAYS JANE DOWIE SHALL NOT GET BEN M'DHUI.

Overseer of Zion City Declares He Will Fight Gift in Court If Necessary.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—"I shall go back to Chicago and Zion City as quick as I can get there. I shall issue a call for a massmeeting Tuesday night, in which I shall begin a battle that will resound all over the world. Mrs. Jane Dowie shall never have Ben McDhui. I will fight her to the Supreme court if necessary. She shall make public confession of her fault, and then, and not until then, I will take care of her," said Wilbur Glenn Voliva today.

Voliva did not remain to make a speech scheduled for tonight, saying that he had been in communication with Zion City all day today, and had been informed that a full fledged movement is on foot to make a present to Mrs. Dowie and Gladstone of Ben McDhui. He spoke in the afternoon, and the church was packed to the doors.

Voliva said that if the estate were thrown into court the lawyers would probably get it all, but Mrs. Dowie should have none of it."

It was announced today that the Zion organ, Leaves of Healing, now edited by Voliva, would probably be soon changed to Herald of the Kingdom.

Word regarding Voliva's move was received in Zion City yesterday by Overseer Bracefield, who said he would call the massmeeting Tuesday as requested. Deacon Archie E. Arrington, one of the handful who have stuck by Dowie, resigned his place and left for Pennsylvania. He had a disagreement with Deacon Peters, a member of Dowie's household.

HUNT FOR DIVORCE PAPERS

LAWYERS SCURRYING TO RETURN COURT RECORDS.

Commotion Result of Notices Sent Out to Attorneys Whose Receipts Were Found in Files Where the Original Documents Ought to Be—Chicago Judges Surprised to Learn of Old Device to Obtain Secrecy, Worked Saturday on Two Outside Jurists.

There was a scurrying among lawyers yesterday to find petitions and original papers taken from the Circuit court clerk's files. Dusty old closets and cabinets in more than one office were emptied of their contents in the hope that some of these forgotten documents would turn up. Chief Clerk Charles C. Case expects a number of them to be returned this morning.

All this agitation was the result of the notices sent out by Mr. Case to the lawyers whose receipts show they were given the papers. Some of these receipts date back fifteen years, and in a large number of such cases it is believed the papers will never be found. In the event they are not returned the receipts will be taken into court and the delinquents required to show cause why they should not be held for contempt.

Cause of Divorce Secrecy.

It is because of this practice, which permitted attorneys to abstract documents from the files, that so much secrecy has existed in the divorce courts of Cook county for years. Both Clerk Vail of the Superior and Clerk Gray of the Circuit court declare they will not permit it any more, and their activity in trying to regain these papers is an evidence of good faith.

All the judges of the Superior and Circuit courts have at various times taken pains to show their opposition to the loose system which has prevailed in the manner of keeping the records, as well as some of the chicanery resorted to by lawyers in behalf of their clients.

Outside Judges Were Easy Prey.

The Chicago judges were surprised to learn of the wornout device used to secure secrecy in the Lampkins case which was imposed on Judge Oscar E. Head of Freeport and Judge Arthur H. Frost of Rockford, who sat in the Superior court last week.

In this instance the lawyer made a request for a change in the name, on the ground that it was a typographical error, and it was granted by Judge Head. The next day the same lawyer asked to be allowed to amend his bill of particulars and this was granted by Judge Frost. Neither judge could remember the lawyer when asked regarding the occurrence.

"I was surprised to hear of this affair," said Judge Brentano, "I had occasion about a year ago to suggest that judges coming from out of the city not handle divorce matters as they are not acquainted with conditions prevailing here. It was not an order but I thought it was pretty well understood."

SUGGESTS NEW Y. M. C. A. HOME.

Juvenile Court Probation Officer Thinks One Is Needed for Boys of Evanston's West Side.

The erection of a Y. M. C. A. home for the use of boys living on the west side, in Evanston, was recommended in an address delivered yesterday before the Coöperative class of the First Congregational church, Evanston, by Mrs. W. E. Hotchkiss, one of the probation officers of the juvenile court.

"The elegance and wealth of the east side of Evanston," Mrs. Hotchkiss said, "is a barrier to the happiness and welfare of the children of the poorer west side who are ranked as a lower class and snubbed and deprived of the social activity of the east side children."

The class will be addressed next Sunday by Col. A. S. Frost, chief of the Evanston police, who will tell of the boy problem in the suburb as he sees it.

HAVE BEEN WED HALF CENTURY.

Golden Anniversary of Chicago Couple to Be Celebrated at Lakeside Club with a Banquet.

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Singer, 3406 South Park avenue, will be celebrated with a reception and banquet at the Lakeside club Sunday evening, Dec. 9. Nearly 100 persons, friends and relatives of the couple, will be present to congratulate them.

Mr. Singer is 83 years old and his wife is 75. They were married in Budapest, Hungary, and came to Chicago fairty years ago, when Mr. Singer founded the firm of M. D. Singer & Co., sausage manufacturers, 3451 Forest avenue. He retired from active business nearly ten years ago.

At the golden wedding there will be present three sons and two daughters of the couple and four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

CANVASS OF VOTE WATCHED BY FOUR

Lantry and McGavin Seek Office in Recount; Board Now at Work.

FIND MANY SCRATCHES.

Seat in Congress from Eighth District Claimed by Late Candidates.

The canvass of the vote cast at last Tuesday's election in Cook county will be resumed today by the board of election commissioners. Two wards have been completed.

The feature of principal interest in connection with the canvass will continue to be the congressional contest between Charles McGavin and Stanley Kunz in the Eighth district and the rivalry for a two year city judgeship between F. L. Barnett and Thomas B. Lantry.

Barnett, the negro republican candidate, who, on the face of the police returns, is elected, leads Thomas B. Lantry, the democratic candidate, by about 800 votes. Lantry expects to lessen this plurality in the canvass, and he may find grounds for demanding a recount of the votes for the municipal judiciary. Attorney Edward Wright is watching the canvass for Barnett, and Lantry has several friends on guard.

McGavin Leaders Claim Victory.

In the congressional contest McGavin's managers are claiming their leader's election by a plurality of fifty votes. They declare they will be able to show in just what precincts the vote was erroneously reported in favor of Kunz. The Eighth district will not be reached till the latter part of next week at the present rate of progress. The first ward in the district to be canvassed will be the Sixteenth.

The theory upon which McGavin, in the one case and Lantry in the other, are relying for developments to their advantage is one recognised generally by politicians. It is that a candidate who has been heavily scratched will be found on a recount to have less votes than originally reported by the precinct officials. The judges and clerks in many instances overlooked scratching, especially on otherwise straight tickets, where one or two candidates only were scratched.

Both Kunz and Barnett were heavily scratched, Kunz because of local disruptions in the democratic organizations in the Eighth district, and Barnett because of his color.

Burke Democracy Wants Liberty.

The campaign being over, Robert E. Burke's county democracy came to life yesterday with a resumption of the social gatherings at 99 Randolph street. Aside from planning their excursion to Mexico in January, the members of the organization present adopted a resolution favoring "more personal liberty," or, in other words, a wide open town. The resolution proposed coöperation with other personal liberty advocates toward bringing out a candidate for mayor who will promise to open up the town a bit.

The republican party now has the largest number of mayoralty possibilities in the field. When the republicans fail to bring forth a daily possibility for themselves the regular democrats or the Hearst crowd help them out with a suggestion. The latest name proposed for the republican nomination is that of W. G. Edens, chairman of the political committee of the Hamilton club.

ORGANIZE TO AID WIDOWS.

Dr. Reichardt Heads League to Save Them from Public Administrator.

Organized, it is claimed, for the protection of widows, the Decedents' Estates Protective league has been launched in Chicago, with Dr. F. E. Reichardt of Irving Park as president and George F. Mulligan attorney.

Dr. Reichardt professed to know little about the league last night, but later admitted that he might have been elected president.

"Under the present law," said he, "the families of deceased persons are required to apply for administration papers within sixty days or forfeit administration to the public administrator. In the latter event they are obliged to wait two years until the estate is settled. This is a hardship for many of them."

He said that the league would go before the next session of the legislature and endeavor to have this section of the law repealed.

LARGEST 2 CENT CIRCULATION IN THE WORLD.

A NATIONAL HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

The assertion made by a Yale professor that 750,000 persons in the United States will die during the next twelve months whose lives might be spared by proper effort is a startling one. So is the declaration that of people now living 8,000,000 will die of tuberculosis. Figures like these given in the large make a great impression, for the average individual does not think of "the innumerable caravan which moves to that mysterious realm." The statistics which show how many people die each day or how many are born interest only the specialist or the moralizer.

But when the list of diseases is given with the death toll of each attached, 8,000,000 dying of pneumonia, 6,000,000 of heart or kidney troubles and the like, the evidence is not necessarily conclusive that the national government should take hold of the situation as if there was no care anywhere for the ills of mankind. To state that $46,000,000 have been spent in ten years on plant health and animal health, while the government has not set in motion a single wheel of machinery for diseases of the human family, does not represent the situation correctly.

There are certain problems which become federal in their character because of international relationships. They pass beyond the bounds of state or municipal jurisdiction. The money expended upon their solution is provided for in the national budget, and there is abundant opportunity to discover in that budget many omissions. They may be explained by the outlays of state or municipal or private funds.

Forty-six million dollars used by the department of agriculture in ten years for study of plant and animal health is a comparatively small amount when the city of Chicago alone has made an expenditure of $50,000,000 to improve its water supply and thus reduce greatly the death rate from typhoid fever. As a matter of fact the people of the United States have been pouring out money for a century with the definite purpose in view of fighting off death. Medical science has been advancing at a rapid rate. State laws have become increasingly strict for the regulation of those who practice medicine. Municipal ordinances are many which relate to sewerage, sanitation, the proper construction of houses, the conditions of labor, exposure to infectious diseases, and many another phase of public health.

The government of the United States is becoming more and more paternal in its character, and it might be a step in advance to have a department of health with fourteen bureaus to consider all sorts of phases of life. But the advocates of such a plan should be perfectly frank in their recognition of the wonderful progress already made in checking the spread of disease and should not underestimate in the least the great work which is being done everywhere by state, municipal, and private agencies.

THE CANAL SALE.

The proposition for the sale of that portion of the Illinois and Michigan canal between Chicago and Joliet appears to have carried. A heavy majority was returned against it in Cook county, but the voters in other counties were generally in its favor. That is not astonishing, for they know that the section of the canal which is to be offered for sale is paralleled by the drainage channel and has become valueless for navigation purposes. It may have been their opinion that no better disposition could be made of it than to sell it and put the proceeds in the state treasury. If the farmers had known that the property in question is worth about $10,000,000 they would have been all the more ready to vote in the affirmative. With such a bonanza it would be possible to remit state taxes for a couple of years.

The joint resolution which the voters appear to have ratified provides that the canal property in question shall be sold at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash. It may be disposed of as an entirety or in such parcels as the governor and canal commissioners shall determine to be for the best interests of the state. The commissioners are given the right to reserve the power to reject any and all bids and readvertise for new ones.

Probably the legislature had no conception of the value for industrial, commercial, and railroad purposes of the canal right of way between Chicago and Joliet. The governor and the canal commissioners are better informed, and it must be assumed that they will not permit the interests of the state to be sacrificed in any particular. They will divide up the property so that it can be marketed to the best advantage, and will accept no inadequate bids. It might have been more business like for the state to retain the title to this valuable strip of land and lease it to men who would improve it properly. The joint resolution directs its sale for cash. There need be no haste about the sale, however. It would not be wise to auction off all the land at once and bear the market. The matter should be carefully handled, so that the state may get full value.

It has been suggested that the next legislature might intervene and stop the sale. If the people have ordered the sale the general assembly may be reluctant to interfere. It is possible, however, that the right of the state to make the sale may be disputed on technical grounds. The act of congress granting lands for the construction of the canal vests in the state the canal route and ninety feet on each side "for a canal and for no other purpose," and reads that "if said ground shall ever cease to be occupied by and used for a canal," the grant shall be void. As the northern section of the canal has been paralleled by an infinitely better waterway it is not likely that the federal officials would lay claim to that section, even though it be worth $10,000,000, but cautious men would make higher bids for the property if a possible cloud on the title were removed by congressional action.

CHICAGO AND CANADA.

It is true, as President Hill said night before last, that "Canada is merely a portion of our own western country, cut off from us by accident of original occupation and subsequent diplomatic agreement." It is equally true that it would profit both Canada and the United States to draw closer the commercial tie between them. The tightening of the tie would be, as Mr. Hill pointed out at some length, of peculiar advantage to Chicago. It would make the Canadian northwest, with its immense possibilities, tributary to Chicago. Nature meant that it should be like Minnesota and the Dakotas. If the merchants and manufacturers of this city were more given to making far reaching plans for its future it would not be necessary for Mr. Hill to dilate to them on the local benefits of Canadian reciprocity.

Desirable as that reciprocity is, there is no immediate prospect of it. It seems more remote than it did a few years ago. It is substantially true that "the plea for more liberal trade relations is negatived only by unreasoning individual selfishness." But there is a good deal of that selfishness, and it can command sufficient political support to put a veto on any reciprocity measure. Individual selfishness looks on unmoved and unconcerned while Canada seeks commercial alliances abroad and is not disturbed by the possibility of the ultimate adoption by Great Britain of Mr. Chamberlain's plans of imperial federation.

Mr. Hill may explain laboriously to the wheat raising farmers of the American northwest that the free admission of Canadian wheat cannot harm them, but many of them will refuse to believe him. They will call on their representatives in the senate and the house to vote against treaties or laws which they dislike. Mr. Hill may appeal to the Canadian manufacturers to assent to a lowering of the duties which protect them against American competitors. Their answer probably will be that they want more instead of less protection.

Whether their selfishness is reasoning or unreasoning, it has to be reckoned with. It furnishes one reason why Canada, which was once eager for reciprocity, is drifting away from it, while there is still enough active individual selfishness in the United States to prevent the ratification of a reciprocity treaty.

But Mr. Hill's cogent arguments should convince the members of the Chicago Commercial association who had the good fortune to hear them. They are devoted to the expansion of the influence and prosperity of that "great central market" called Chicago. They ought to see what reciprocity with Canada will do for the city and work for it with tireless energy, even though there is no immediate prospect of success.

WIDENING HALSTED STREET.

The question of the widening of Halsted street is being argued with much heat and fury before the board of local improvements. There are many objectors, mostly small property owners, who are firm in the belief that if the project is carried out they will suffer pecuniarily. As that is their honest though mistaken belief, it is natural that they should be quite indifferent to the larger aspects of the improvement. They refuse to admit that it will be of the greatest advantage to that part of the city in which they live and whose prosperity they wish to promote.

Halsted street ought to be widened as proposed and be made the great north and south artery for west side traffic. It is short sighted policy on the part of any owner of property on the street to oppose the measure. But the intensity of the opposition is such that there is not much reason to believe it will be carried out.

If the board of local improvements shall refuse to be convinced by the arguments of objectors, the approval of the council will still have to be obtained. It is hard to get that approval for any project, no matter how meritorious, when personal interests are arrayed against it. When the aldermen of the Halsted street wards find that a number of their constituents are up in arms against the improvement they will be apt to side with those constituents. Aldermanic courtesy will forbid the aldermen from other wards to overrule the representatives of the wards immediately concerned.

The day will come when the exigencies of traffic will compel the widening of Halsted street, although in a few years it will be a more difficult and expensive undertaking than at present. There does not seem to be any immediate prospect of favorable action in the premises.

IDENTIFYING THE DEAD.

One practical outcome of the recent Red Cross conference in Switzerland is the determination of the United States army authorities to adopt the plan in use by several foreign nations by which the possibility of failure to identify the dead on the battlefield will be much lessened.

Among the horrors of war none has brought more anguish than that which has attended the loss of friends whose burial place has never been known. The soil of the "sunny south" covers the ashes of many a soldier, buried in a trench on the battlefield or in a long row of the graves of the "unknown dead." Every Memorial day, with its decoration of the graves at home, recalls the sorrow of the distant graves. The orator and the poet have made much use of this sentiment, and no recognition of the tenderness of Red Cross agent has ever prevented the sympathetic feeling which is aroused when "somebody's darling" is the only designation for the dead soldier.

It has now been ordered that there shall be issued to every officer and soldier in the United States army an aluminium disk to be inscribed with name, regimental, and company designation, to be worn around the neck under the clothing. This device ought to prove of great value when the losses in battle are checked up. Of course there are some chances of error attending the plan. It is by no means an exceptional thing for men of one army to wear the uniforms made for the soldiers of the other. In the American civil war the bodies of the dead were often stripped on the battlefield in order that ill clad living soldiers might be more comfortable, the incongruity of wearing a blue uniform to fight against the blue being less considered than the individual need. In such an event the tag might be taken along with the clothes, although the chances are that human sentiment would dictate the leaving of this means of identification. But the plan is a good one. The possibility of identification is much to be preferred to no means of determining the name and connection of the dead.

There is no good reason why the same sort of a device should not have a wider use than in army circles. There are thousands of people who are engaged in hazardous occupations where death is liable to come quickly of whom little is known by their companions. Relatively few persons have name and residence indicated by label or memorandum upon their clothing. Some individuals carry identification cards, some have vest pocket books which give the needed information, and some are helped by tailors who sew a label inside a pocket which tells the name. But the frequency with which one reads the statement in case of an accident, "Nothing was found to identify the victim," is pretty good evidence of the general carelessness in the matter. The chances are that the great majority of the people who are met each day as one walks along the streets carry no identification marks about their persons.

TROUBLE FOR STAMP COLLECTORS.

The time is near for the awarding of contracts for the printing of postage stamps for the coming year, and there is a rumor which bodes ill to the collector of stamps. It is said that the postmaster general looks favorably on a project to adopt distinctive stamps for each of the six cities which excel the others in business. The stamps sold in the next eighteen cities would have, by the same plan, stamps identical in design but bearing the name of the city in which they were sold. Thus stamps of any denomination would be divided into twenty-five classes, those sold in the largest cities, twenty-four in number, and those sold in all the rest of the country.

One reason assigned for the proposition is that the salary of postmasters in many offices depends partly upon the number of stamps sold. It is suspected that some postmasters induce friends in other cities to buy stamps of them in order to increase their salaries. If the stamps bore the name of the city where they were sold this could not be done without discovery. A postmaster who could prove that any large proportion of the stamps on matter mailed at his office was purchased in another city, and that he was thus defrauded of a part of the revenue to which he was entitled, could find a way to correct the matter.

If there is no other practical advantage to the new scheme, it would increase the postal revenues for a time, since no collection would be complete without twenty-five full sets of stamps. The republic of San Marino a few years ago entirely paid for the erection of a new government palace by selling a souvenir issue of stamps, and the commemorative issues in connection with American expositions have increased the revenues for the time being. After the collectors are all supplied it is not likely that any larger number of stamps will be sold than used. The reward of the government then will be the possibility of the detection of fraudulent sales.

Cities among the favored twenty-four would probably be pleased with distinctive stamps. It is not likely that the cities just below the limit would rest until they, too, had their own stamps. It is hard to see where the thing would stop. This is probably the fatal defect to the plan. To be compelled to use common stamps while a business rival had stamps of its own would be a grievance which enough cities would resent to compel congressional action against the proposition.

Is SOMEBODY trying to get even with Jeweler Hagamann?

THE public witnessed a fine exhibition of irrigated football last Saturday.

AFTER the federated teachers have given "their side of the case" it might be well for somebody to give the school children's side of the case.

IT may not be true that every man has his price, but it certainly costs Cook county a great deal of money to get a Shea juror.

IT will be remembered that Datto Bryan carefully refrained from making any predictions as to the market price of wheat that would prevail in case of Candidate Hearst's defeat.

BY the way, if Mr. Chanler had spent $600,000 in boosting himself he might have been elected lieutenant governor of New York by 100,000 majority.

FOOTBALL rules should be revised so that in the event of a heavy rain the game can be played as water polo.

ANYWAY, November has given us several ideal days of Indian summer. Remember this when the melancholy days really come.

"ISN'T the democratic party nearly tired of such leaders as Bryan, Hearst, Murphy, Bourke Cockran, and Moran, with Gompers on the side?" asks the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Why this studied ignoring of the illustrious Col. J. Ham Lewis?

GOVERNMENT crop reports have gone against the calamity party by an overwhelming majority.

SO FAR as known there is no intention of widening that portion of Halsted street lying contiguous to the stockyards. The smells would occupy the enlarged thoroughfare just the same.

WHEN the president is aboard of a United States battleship he is still in the United States, isn't he?

IT will not be time for Rudyard Kipling to die until he has emitted something in the nature of a swan song.

DOES the motion to make Uncle Tim Hill one of Chicago's Favorite Adopted Sons meet with a second?

AS TO anything tangible and ponderable in the line of reciprocity between the United States and Canada, Uncle Tim Hill is willing to be the bearer of it.

COL. HARRIS, constructively of Kansas, is at liberty to return to Chicago.

IF you see it in quotation marks it isn't so.—T. Roosevelt.

MINNESOTA gave Chicago the Minnehaha!

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1906: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

LORD FRANCIS HOPE, who, since divorcing May Yohe, has married an Australian girl, daughter of the late George Thompson of Melbourne, has, by this second union, just become the father of a son at Castleblayney, county Monaghan, in Ireland, where he makes his home. This, of course, diminishes, if it does not destroy, the prospects of Charles Pelham-Clinton of succeeding to the dukedom of Newcastle.

Charles Pelham-Clinton spent a number of years in New York, engaged in journalism, furnishing sporting news and social items to the Mail and Express in the days when it belonged to Cyrus Field. While in this country he married the only daughter of Louis Di Zerega of New York, who at the time of the match had a fair prospect of becoming duchess of Newcastle, for the present duke has no children, nor is he likely to ever have any, by his marriage seventeen years ago to the sporting daughter of Maj. "Sugar" Candy. His only brother, Lord Francis, was childless until ten days ago.

Next in line of succession to the dukedom and the Newcastle estates was the late duke's only surviving brother, the more than septuagenarian Lord Edward Pelham-Clinton, master of the late Queen Victoria's household, and a childless widower, while after him came Charles Pelham-Clinton as eldest son of Lord Charles Pelham-Clinton, younger son of the fourth duke of Newcastle.

Lord Francis Hope uses the name of Hope in lieu of his patronymic of Pelham-Clinton in accordance with the terms of the will of his maternal grandmother, old Mrs. Henry Thomas Hope, who made him her principal heir, bequeathing to him not only the famous Hope diamond but also the beautiful country seat and estate of Deepdene, in Surrey, which for years has been the home of Lily, duchess of Marlborough, formerly Mrs. Lewis Hammersley of New York.

It is not generally known that the Newcastle from which the present duke of that ilk takes his title is not the big manufacturing city of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, which has a quarter of a million inhabitants, but Newcastle-under-Lyme, a little bit of a town in Shropshire.

The dukedom of Newcastle originally was vested in the ancient Sussex house of Pelham, of which the earl of Chichester now is the chief; that is to say, the dukedom of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and was created in favor of the statesman, Thomas Pelham, who played so great a rôle in England at the beginning of the eighteenth century, with remainder to his brother. When the latter predeceased him without male issue, leaving only daughters, the duke secured a fresh patent, with remainder to his eldest niece's husband, Lord Lincoln, head of that house of Clinton, which was founded by Geoffrey de Clinton, lord chamberlain to King Henry I.

As the two patents could not be granted for the same title of duke of Newcastle, the second patent was made as duke of Newcastle-under-Lyme, in order to distinguish it from the statesman's earlier dukedom of Newcastle-upon-Tyne. The latter became extinct, of course, with his death, the other dukedom being inherited by his nephew-in-law, Lord Lincoln, from whom the present duke is descended in a direct line.

In view of the reported purchase of Kylemore castle by James Henry Smith of New York, it may be of interest to recall that it figures in one of the best known of the novels of Charles Lever. "Bishop's Folly," which plays so prominent a rôle in "the Brambleighs of Bishop's Folly," is Kylemore castle, and the "Brambleighs" are no other than the Blakes of Ruivyle, one of the most ancient families of Ireland, from whom Mitchell Henry purchased the place.

Mitchell Henry, as every one knows, spent an immense amount of money upon the castle and grounds, and was passionately devoted to his beautiful Connemara home until the day when his young daughter met with death by drowning in the lough of Kylemore, under the very windows, so to speak, of the castle.

Eugene Zimmerman of Cincinnati purchased it from the Henry estate for his son-in-law and daughter, the duke and duchess of Manchester, who, however, have found it much too expensive to maintain, and that is why it has been sold to James Henry Smith, who can now boast of possessing one of the most charming places in Ireland.

In view of the fact that Princess Vicavaro, who was Miss Eleanor Spencer of New York, is the widow of the last chief of the historic Roman house of Cenci, which furnished several pontiffs to the church of Rome, including John X., it may be of interest to state that recent historical researches have served to rob Beatrice Cenci of the species of halo of martyrdom with which she has been until now invested. Indeed, those who cried over her in Shelley's well known drama may dry their tears.

The whole Cenci family have now changed parts. Francesco, the father, hitherto portrayed by historians and poets as a man so infamous as to justify fully his assassination by Beatrice and her brothers, has been cleared of his evil reputation and is proved to have been a relatively decent citizen; at any rate, infinitely superior to his children. His sons, it is demonstrated, were scoundrels of the deepest dye, and his daughter, Beatrice, not only steeped in vice but, worse still, ugly, and in the neighborhood of 30 instead of sweet 16 at the time of her father's murder.

There is the most conclusive evidence to show that the celebrated Beatrice Cenci portrait has no claim to authenticity. It could not have been painted by Guido Reni, as he came to Rome only four years after the execution of Beatrice; nor by Paul Veronese, as he died ten or fifteen years earlier. It is nothing but the picture of a pretty woman by an unknown painter.

Pope Clement VIII., hitherto regarded as a cruel tyrant, is now shown to have acted with a good deal of leniency towards the Cencis, although he had every reason to abhor them; and though he could not have seen his way to remit the punishment of Beatrice and her elder brothers for their crime of patricide, yet he pardoned the younger brother, Bernardino, on account of his youth.

It is from Bernardino that the late Don Virginio Cenci, prince of Vicavaro, and last of his race, was descended in a direct line. He has left an only child, a daughter, whom he named Beatrice before he was aware of the true character of his most celebrated ancestress. She is still unmarried, although a great heiress, thanks to her American mother and to her future ownership of the Cenci palace at Rome.

Sir Matthew Nathan, the $30,000 a year governor of Hong Kong, and the only member of the Hebrew faith among the satraps of England's important colonies, is in serious trouble, owing to gross mismanagement of the government observatory at Hong Kong. As governor, Sir Matthew is held responsible for everything that goes wrong among his subordinates, and, owing to the neglect of the observatory to issue the customary warning of the approach of the typhoon, the last cyclonic visitation a couple of months ago resulted in damage in the port to the extent of some $20,000,000 and in the loss of nearly 10,000 lives.

If the shipping in the port of Hong Kong was taken unawares it was entirely due to the insulting behavior of the director of the observatory of Hong Kong to those in charge of the observatory at Manila, who, from motives of courtesy and humanity, had always furnished telegraphic warnings to Hong Kong, until informed by the director there that the observations were unreliable and useless.

The observatory at Manila knew two full days in advance of the cyclonic peril threatening Hong Kong, and, since intercourse with the observatory at Hong Kong had been interrupted, cabled the warning to the American consul there. Unfortunately, the latter seems to have been absent from his post, and owing to this the message did not receive the proper publicity.

There is a question as to whether the owners of the shipping which has been destroyed in the port of Hong Kong have not a cause of action for damages against the government for the failure of the Hong Kong observatory to issue a warning, which had been received and posted at Shanghai, Amoy, Manila, and in most of the Chinese ports thirty-six and even forty-eight hours before.

If you wish an evening of happy entertainment see "The Road to Yesterday" at the Garrick theater. It is called a comedy fantasy and it is all that both of those words signify. It is a comedy, delightful in the sweet, wholesome, blithe humor that abounds throughout it, and it is a fantasy charming in the whimsical, merry conceit that gives it being.

The doctrine of reincarnation has been put to stage use, but with so much discrimination, such neat technical skill, and such fine feeling that no one holding to that doctrine can feel his sensibilities shocked and no one not interested in it can be bored or left indifferent. The subject material is of such peculiar quality that only such treatment as the two authoresses have accorded could keep the resultant play from offending or wearying.

"The Road to Yesterday"—a winning title!—is a play two acts of which have to do with a dream. There have been many such plays in the past, but the authors of this latest one have hit upon a new and decidedly clever idea. In all the other dream plays the people in the dream have not realized that they were not awake. In "The Road to Yesterday," however, the hero, who does the dreaming, knows all the time he is going through the incidents of the dream that she really is dreaming, and her wish is to waken. But she cannot, and thus her dream gradually comes to take on the seriousness of reality for her.

The idea is a novel one and permits the introduction of some of the brightest and sweetest comedy that the charming play contains. The audience last evening at the Garrick quickly came under the spell and received the performance with every evidence of keenest enjoyment, and with an approval that was unqualified. And an excellent performance it was. Every character was in thoroughly competent hands, the setting was in the best possible taste, the costuming was elegant and rich, and the stage management admirable. For a first performance it was remarkable, for there was not a hitch from start to finish. The whole evening came as a surprise of the most agreeable and welcome kind.

The first act plays in the studio of one Will Leveson, a London artist who has been fairly successful and who is planning the painting of a picture which shall be called "A Bulwark of England." He wishes a model for the big strapping yeoman soldier whom he intends to paint, and finds it in his former college chum, Jack Greatorex. He brings Jack home with him and induces the manly fellow to dress in the costume of three centuries ago. There are others in the studio—Mrs. Leveson, the devoted wife of Will; Eleandr Leveson, his sister; Mrs. Phelps, who just has come from the continent, bringing with her Elspeth, the younger sister of Mrs. Leveson. There also drop in Adrian Tompkyns, a dabbler in painting, and Kenelm Paulton, who is a former captain in the British army, but who is nursing a wounded right arm.

Elspeth has been out all day and comes home worn with sightseeing in London, but enthusiastic over all the old time places she has visited. She longs to be back in the days of centuries ago, and Norah, the Irish maid, warns her not to wish for anything of the kind, for this is Midsummer Eve and wishes wished then come true. Elspeth is so weary that she is induced to rest. She consents, but chances to see Jack in the old fashioned costume and thinks part of her wish has come true. She concludes the glimpse she had of him was but a fancy, and goes to her couch. Mrs. Leveson is a believer in reincarnation, and is convinced that in some previous existence she was a gypsy. Her husband also is inclined to half credit her fancy and the entire little circle is tinged slightly with the doctrine of former incarnations. Elspeth falls asleep, and the scene suddenly changes to the exterior of an English inn. She rushes in dressed as a serving maid. She realizes she is dreaming, but is happy to think that at last she is in the time of long ago. Jack appears in his soldier dress and the curtain falls on the tableau of the two standing looking at each other.

The second and third act play in the year 1603, and they are exquisite in the air of delicate fantasy and of charming comedy that pervades them. All the characters of the first act appear, but some of them are strangely changed in social position, and all the likes and dislikes that were shown in the first act are here given cause and reason. The latter of these acts ends in a moment of emotion and seriousness, and the fourth act brings all back to the studio. Elspeth wakens and finds Jack, whom she has learned to love in her dream, there alone, but still in the old time dress. She throws herself into his arms despite the fact that she had not been introduced to him save in her dream. All is worked out to a delightful conclusion, but in a way which shows unusual skill on the part of the authors. It is a play which scarcely could be bettered in any particular, and if it does not prove one of the sterling successes of the year then indications mean nothing.

Gabrilowitsch Recital.

Music hall was filled to its last place yesterday afternoon. The audience sat in a darkened auditorium and quietly enjoyed some piano playing which has place among the best that has been heard here in a long time. Mr. Neumann had decided to try the experiment of lowering the lights during the music and the freedom from nervous fidgeting, the close attention paid to the performance, and the spontaneous enthusiasm which followed each number would indicate that the experiment was successful and desirable. May it become custom.

The piano playing was done by Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the young Russian pianist, who on the occasion of visits here in seasons past has made for himself a place high in the esteem of all lovers of piano music. By the excellence of his technical equipment, by the thorough musicianship which characterizes his every offering, by the fine poetic sanity of his readings, and by the well proportioned temperamental warmth of his interpretations, he then compelled the respect and admiration of all who heard, and he now has won for himself a foremost place among the younger pianists of the world. Yesterday he returned after an absence of considerable length, and again he impressed most favorably. He has broadened and matured in his work—he speaks now with the authority and confidence of one who knows. And with this gain in interpretative poise has come no lessening of the beautiful tonal quality and the excellent musicianship.

There are few players who make the piano so attractive an instrument to hear as does Mr. Gabrilowitsch. He lends to its every tone a sensuous charm which is met with but all too rarely in the work of the great majority of his fellow artists. There was not a moment during the recital yesterday when the tone was not beautiful. The instrument never was forced and yet splendidly sonorous and impressive climaxes were frequent. The singing tone was ever in evidence and the result was delight to the listener. The exceptional skill with which Mr. Gabrilowitsch employs the pedal is far from being one of the least of his artistic virtues.

The majority of our traveling virtuosi could study this side of his performance with distinct profit to their own work. And his tempos also are subject for unqualified admiration. The ideal tempo at which he took the A-flat Polonaise of Chopin, for example, well might be copied by other pianists. And the manliness, yet fineness, of the sentiment he voiced in all he did calls for only sincerest approval.

The program was interesting. It opened with the first Sonata of Glazounow, a work not played here before. It proved a composition containing much that is attractive albeit the manner of saying rather than what is said lends the work its chief worth. Thematic material not especially significant is spread over an unduly large space, and the result is diffuseness and oftentimes thinness. The middle movement is the most attractive and worthy. Mr. Gabrilowitsch played the number superbly, with absolute technical supremacy, with rare tonal charm, and with unmistakable sympathy. The audience waxed genuinely enthusiastic and recalled the pianist five times. Schuber's rarely heard Moment Musical in A-flat was given with fine understanding of its poetic qualities, and his B-minor Minuet was captivatingly crisp and clear. The C-minor Intermezzo of Brahms was made tonally beautiful, and his E-flat Rhapsodie was read with big sweep and virility. The Chopin group consisted of the F-major Nocturne interpreted with full appreciation of its delicate sentiment, the fascinating B-minor Mazurka brilliantly given, and the Polonaise. Two interesting and effective Preludes by Arensky roused the audience to hearty approval, and the pianist's own Theme Varié closed the program. This latter composition is exceptionally effective, being skillfully made and of marked brilliancy.

"HOW I WAS BUNKOED." By the Victims.

Tribune Readers Tell of the Ways in Which They Were Flimflammed Out of Their Savings.

In response to the request of THE TRIBUNE hundreds of readers have sent in accounts of the ways in which they have been bunkoed. The series of personal experiences are full of human interest and tragedy and give warnings by which others may profit. The first installment of the series is published below and they will be followed by others from day to day.

Made Poor by a Woman's Trick.

THE smash of Consolidated Lake Superior left me without a sou. The only asset I had was a complete set of silver service left me by my grandmother. Being forced to sacrifice this I placed an advertisement in the newspapers. Several days later a woman, stylishly dressed and strikingly handsome, drove up and I showed her all the pieces. She finally agreed to give me $1,200.

"I have not the money with me," she said, "but I am the wife of Dr. Hitchcock of the sanitarium, and if you will get in my coupé we can drive home and carry the silver. My husband can give you a check."

Dr. Hitchcock was celebrated as the wealthy owner of a fashionable asylum, and I gladly consented. The silver was packed and placed in the carriage.

At the asylum I was ushered by two servants into an apartment and waited. The woman had told me the doctor was probably engaged, but that she would find him. At the end of two hours' waiting I was thoroughly annoyed. On attempting to leave the apartment I found the doors locked. I then saw the whole trick. I explained to the servants, stormed, raged, threatened. All vain. Eleven hours later I was released through bribing a domestic to carry a letter.

On the day previous the same woman had made arrangements at the asylum to bring her demented husband at the exact hour when she appeared with me. She had explained to them the necessity of avoiding a scene.

In the general explanation which followed I was told that immediately after I had been escorted to the apartment she collapsed in tears and drove briskly away. No trace of the woman or silver was found. R. T. R.

Gets Poor Quick in Rich Quick Game.

ONCE upon a time I had $200 in real money. Had it not been for this fact I would still be among those unbunkoed and unshorn. There was a young man in the same office with me who had been receiving alluring literature from a so-called commission firm doing business at St. Louis.

The circulars showed up and proved beyond a reasonable doubt to this young man that every day he staid out was money out of his pocket. Finally it got to a point where the young man could not stand it any longer, and the next day he shipped $300 to St. Louis.

The commission company's modus operandi was as follows: They would receive your money and place it in the "wheat fund" or the "corn fund" at the investor's option. If placed in the corn fund the investor received 1½ per cent per week, but if placed in the wheat fund he got 3 per cent per week, but the latter account was not settled weekly, as in the corn fund, but monthly, and then only on three weeks' written notice.

The wheat fund looked good to the young man and he would chuckle with unholy glee every week as he received a statement from the company showing that so much had been earned that week by his principal owing to wise investment in wheat and that the same had been "placed to his account."

At this time the aforesaid $200 came gliding into my life, it being the first easy money I ever had earned up to that time, and I made up my mind that I, too, would accept of the munificent St. Louis offer, and accordingly the next day I contributed $200 to the "easy mark" fund. The next week both the young man and myself received letters stating that owing to the uncertain condition of the wheat market that week there had been no investments made and consequently no dividends. The week following the whole hearted promoter "busted," and was placed in prison for a few days. Not one of the "investors" received a penny back, although the man who got their money still walks the streets of St. Louis or elsewhere secure and unpunished. A. A. P.

His Money Lost Through "Patent Gate."

LIKE every young fellow on a small salary, I was eager to make money fast. I was always looking for a sure thing opportunity to invest what little savings I had and make one dollar earn me at least two.

One day a good looking, well dressed man came into the store and tried to interest my employer in "a little proposition whereby he could make some money." The boss did not seem interested so I corralled the stranger and told him that I might possibly invest some money if he had a good proposition to offer.

He was a director of a large company manufacturing patent gates. A person by pulling a chain could open the gate either way without getting off his wagon. A fine thing for farmers and "a man could make $100 a day just selling the gates." The proposition he had to make to me, however, was of the agency and not canvassing variety. He would sell me the rights for a county. I could sell townships for $250 besides getting a royalty on all the gates sold in my county.

I purchased a bunch of his blue sky and got a receipt for my money. He wanted $500 for a county, but as I had only $300 he made me a special reduction and took on the responsibility. If I had waited fifteen minutes more I could have bought the whole state.

I was so afraid he would withdraw his generous offer that I could not draw a check for my little $200 quick enough. How small that $200 looked, too, when I could easily get $250 for a single township. I had visions of soft cushioned chairs and a job for each one of my relatives.

I rushed home that evening and told my wife all about our sudden rise. She threw cold water on my enthusiasm. She didn't understand it, so I explained it all to her two or three times. It was such a cinch! She could not see it and kept thinking of the $200 that we had had in the bank. That seemed to be gone. Just like a woman, anyway. I felt sorry for her when I thought of her lack of foresight.

I still have a county in Iowa which I will close out cheaply on account of the length of time it has been in stock. My smooth benefactor sold the whole state two or three times before he left town. The name on my receipt was Adam Weisman. M. N. H.

Lesson Costs Him Wife and Savings.

IT was an advertisement of this kind that taught me my lesson at the cost of nearly all I possessed:

WANTED—LADY AS PRIVATE SECRETARY in a bond house; experience not necessary; faithfulness required; must be familiar with depositing and withdrawing money from banks; must be financially responsible for from $4,000 to $6,000; all replies returned if desired.

I answered the advertisement, stating I had had no experience, but owned property worth $6,000. On request I called at an office in Chicago, where Mr. —— covered sheets of paper with figures showing how much was being made in oil in Kansas. He said he represented a wealthy company, of which a well known eastern millionaire with high commercial rating was president. At the next interview he offered me the position at $15 a week. He told me his associate had lost a fortune in real estate and must sacrifice some valuable holdings in their company. Twenty per cent dividends would be declared shortly and the stock would double in value in a year. The eastern millionaire had refused $300 a share for his. The "associate" corroborated this.

To curtail a long story they induced me to sacrifice my property for the stock, giving my note for the shares—they keeping the whole as collateral. Then I set advertised again and again, selling my stock to other victims. I wrote to the eastern millionaire who said it was worthless. When accosted they offered me $50 monthly if I would leave town. A lawyer took the case on a contingent fee. He advised me to accept $150 cash and the remainder in $100 notes. He kept $50, making me indorse notes to the amount of his fee. After collecting the notes he tried to frighten me into selling mine for half. Failing that, he became insulting and neglected my business. Remonstrances were in vain. Mrs. E. M. W.

SLICK & CO., stock and bond brokers of Chicago, advertised to furnish capital for meritorious business enterprises. Having what I considered an unusually good business proposition, I wrote them to know if they could secure the necessary capital without my surrendering the ownership and management of my business. They agreed to do this by the sale of guaranteed debenture bonds, and they magnanimously proposed to accept their commission after the bonds had been sold and paid for.

After a few days they notified me that they had succeeded in placing the entire issue of bonds and inclosed a blank application for a bond guaranty company, which was to be returned with an "underwriting" fee of $250. I declined to send them the money but after some parley went to Chicago to make a personal investigation. I called at the luxurious offices of Slick & Co., located high up in a big skyscraper, and met the dignified head of the firm and also the "capitalist" who was to furnish the money.

This man was rated in the Chicago city directory as a capitalist, and he had the appearance of being such, and, together with his businesslike proposition, won my confidence to such an extent that I finally sent my check for $250 to the Chicago representative of a bond guaranty company and another check for $25 to Slick & Co. to pay for engraving the bonds. After considerable delay on the part of the "capitalist" in putting up the necessary sum to pay for the bonds—which delay Slick & Co. could not satisfactorily explain, I grew suspicious and made a careful investigation through a mercantile agency.

BIG CROWD HEARS HILLIS.

GREAT AUDITORIUM THEATER IS FILLED WITH WORSHIPERS.

Nearly 4,000 Persons Hear Sermon by Former Pastor of Central Church, Now Minister for Henry Ward Beecher's Old Congregation in Brooklyn—Rabbi Tobias Schanfarber Defends the Higher Criticism of the Bible.

That the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, now pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, still holds a warm place in the hearts of the people of Chicago was proved by the fact that nearly 4,000 worshipers filled Auditorium theater yesterday morning to hear the former pastor of Central church, Chicago, address his old congregation.

"Faith in God as the impelling force to the accomplishment of great deeds was the theme of his sermon, in which he pointed out that only in faith and love could be found true happiness.

"Faith is the great dynamics of the people's life," said Dr. Hillis. "The man who has faith in himself and in his country, and, above all, in his God, shall do exploits and be the great things of his generation.

Faith Is a Social Factor.

"Faith is the soul rushing forth in motion. However a man feels that God has gone out of his life he withers and his works die. You can defeat a man who trusts in God.

"The man who links himself to God will find a partner equal to every defeat. The men who have wrought the great exploits of history all have knitted their lives to God.

"Whether it be in the domain of statesmanship, eloquence, man must have faith in the eternal God. It has been said that eloquence is no longer is heard in the halls of congress. I do not say that is true. But if it is true the cause is not hard to find. There are no great moral questions over which to wax eloquent.

"The eloquent our statesmen must talk on the subject of doing away with paupers and drunkards, establishing art galleries and schools for the benefit and enlightenment of the people.

Defends the Higher Critics.

Rabbi Tobias Schanfarber of Kehilath Anshe Mayrir congregation preached on "Biblicity Versus Higher Criticism," and expressed the belief that the alarm felt by many orthodox Christians concerning the views of higher critics of the bible are hysterical and unjustifiable.

"It is not a question of all the bible or none of the bible, as some would suppose," he said. "What is true in the bible will always remain true. The higher critics do not wish to overturn the truths of the bible; they could not if they would, and they would not if they could. There is none that has a higher estimate of the bible as a moral and religious force than the higher biblical critic. Their rhapsodies about the intense righteousness of the prophets and their great moral and spiritual contributions to the salvation of mankind cannot be matched by anything that the most orthodox religious leaders have said or written about them.

One Cause of Infidelity.

"It is the extreme attitude of the church in regard to this question that is driving a large number of men into skepticism and infidelity, and causing a larger defection from the ranks of religion than anything that the higher critics are doing.

"It is a mistake to believe that we destroy religion when we destroy the errors that have clustered about religion. Religion is not the product of the bible; the bible is the product of religion. If all the bibles of all the world were to be destroyed religion would still continue to be. The world would without framing a new bible that should contain all the inspiring things of the old book, with the additional inspirations of the new generation. The bible is not a handbook of science; it is the world's manual of morality, and, as such, always will be the source from which the world will draw its inspiration for high conduct and Godlike deeds."

COUGHS: CURED OF BRONCHITIS

Fairfield Man Finds Sprig of Cedar Lodged in Trachea Cause of Eight Months' Illness.

Fairfield, Ill., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Relief from bronchitis and threatened consumption came today for Timothy Whitacre, a well known farmer near this city, when he coughed up a sprig of cedar which a year ago had been drawn down his trachea. He had spent the last eight months at Phoenix, Ariz., for relief from threatened consumption. Now he expects to get well.

MEANEST MAN IS DESCRIBED.

The Rev. Frederick E. Hopkins Declares It Is the Husband Who Is Not Considerate with His Wife.

"The meanest cuss in the world is the man who is mean to his wife," declared the Rev. Frederick E. Hopkins in Pilgrim Congregational church yesterday in a sermon on "The Wrong Kind of a Husband."

"The wrong kind of a husband," he said, "is the man who does not love his wife only, no matter how many other women he likes. And the man who does not share the responsibility and cares of the family. Also who does not encourage his wife to go to church and go with her and develop the religious side of his life, so that it will not bulge out of all shape toward business.

"Also, who does not tell his wife the truth about his business affairs. Also who does not encourage his wife to belong to some good club. Also who spends $100 on edge dues and then like a steer if she goes to a 'bargain matinee' for 25 cents. Also who employs a good tailor often, but does not notice that his wife's gowns are of the vintage of two or three years ago. Also who bullies and browbeats and humiliates, discourages and disheartens his wife because she is a woman, thus the little shyster knows if she was a man he would be put out of business with one quick punch."

NEW VIEW OF JUDAS ISCARIOT.

Pastor Harnly Thinks Betrayer of Jesus Was Prompted by Ambition to Become Treasurer of Restored Kingdom.

Immoderate ambition to become the treasurer of the restored kingdom of God on earth was declared by the Rev. A. H. Harnly, pastor of Austin Baptist church, in a sermon yesterday, to have been the motive which prompted Judas Iscariot to betray Jesus.

"Jesus," he said, "shared with the other Jews the Jewish notion of the mission of the Messiah. The only Messiah they were looking for was one who should free them from the yoke of Rome. This his disciples expected Jesus to do. And with reference to that reestablished kingdom what were the reasonable expectations of Judas? What if not the treasurership of the restored kingdom? That then, treasurer of all Israel, was the stake for which Judas Iscariot stacked his cards when he betrayed Jesus Christ.

"The spirit of Judas Iscariot lurks in every heart and wants only an opportunity to declare itself—the spirit of an inordinate, unconsecrated ambition. The spirit which leads a man to betray his better instincts to gain a selfish end. The commercial spirit of our day is the spirit of Judas Iscariot."

Pastor to Stay in Chicago.

The Rev. Fred V. Hawley, pastor of Unity church, Barry and Evanston avenues, declared yesterday at his home, 2429 North Hermitage avenue, that there is no foundation to the rumor that the pastorate of the church of the Messiah in New York had been offered him upon the resignation of the Rev. Minot J. Savage. Mr. Hawley has been pastor of Unity church for three years.

Kirmanshah Rugs

It is true the proverbial deep, dark tones of the old Persian masterpieces do not usually find expression in rugs woven in Kirmanshah, but for the modern parlor, the music room, the living room, where an atmosphere of daintiness prevails, where color tone is soft and subdued and restful harmony is most essential, the peculiarly artistic designs, the mellow, fascinating colorings and the extra fine quality of the Kirmanshah rugs seem to furnish just the desired effect.

At present we are prepared to show hundreds of rare and unusual examples from the above district in all sizes obtainable and at most reasonable prices.

No matter how uncommon your wants may be in this particular line we most likely will be able to fill it.

FOOTBALL FOCUS NOW ON THE EAST

Minnesota Game Was the Climax of the Gridiron Season in the West.

RULES NOT FAIRLY TRIED

Dry Field May Give Yale and Princeton Chance to Show Up the New Game.

With a fortnight of the football season left, Chicago enthusiasts find themselves in the predicament of watching an anti-climax. The one "big" game of the year in this section has been played, and the greater part of the interest which remains in the season is confined to the east.

Chicago has two games yet to play, with Illinois next Saturday and Nebraska a week later, but both of these opponents have been beaten this season and the chief goal of the Midway team in both games will be to make as strong a showing against them as other leading elevens of the west have made. Stagg's men will try to beat Illinois harder than Michigan and Wisconsin did and to run up a larger score against Nebraska than the Gophers made, in order to retain the remnants of prestige left them after their defeat of Saturday by Minnesota.

Michigan and Pennsylvania.

Considerable interest attaches to the game next Saturday between Michigan and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, because it is one of the rare meetings between eastern and western elevens. But there will be little basis for comparisons as neither team has played the representative teams of either section. Michigan does not meet any of the leading teams of the west this year, and Pennsylvania does not play any of the big teams of the east, although it already has been beaten by secondary institutions with sufficient ease and frequency to establish the fact the Quaker eleven of 1906 does not rank in its old place in the "big four."

Indians to Tackle Gophers.

The game between Minnesota and Carlisle at Minneapolis next Saturday will bring together two elevens which come nearer being representative of the two sections of the country, because the Gophers have played one "big" game, while the Indians have played Harvard to a close score and have defeated Pennsylvania. Still there will be no basis for comparison of the two sections, because the Indians will meet Minnesota at the Gophers' top notch condition, Williams' eleven having been developed to its utmost for the Chicago game, while the redskins tackled Pennsylvania before its practice season was well started and Harvard while still in the formative process two weeks before the Yale game, which is the time the crimson coaches aim to have their team at its highest point of speed and development.

The "big" game of next Saturday, therefore, will be that between Yale and Princeton on the Tigers' gridiron, and there, for the first time, will be shown a real exemplification of "new" football, if the conditions will permit.

No Test of New Game.

There is no question in the minds of any that the revised game of football did not have a fair test on Marshall field Saturday because the conditions prevented the display of anything like the full strength of either team in offense. Both teams were compelled to stick more or less closely to old fashioned methods on account of the doubtful footing and difficulty of handling the ball. Eckersall did not bring out half the plays Stagg had devised for the occasion, and it is fair to assume Larkin did not attempt all that Williams had worked up for the Gophers.

It is unfortunate from the standpoint of the admirers of the new rules the game could not be played under conditions as favorable as those of the day before. Then there would have been a basis for comparing the old game and the new. Saturday's game here, however, demonstrated one thing, and that is the necessity of providing in advance for heat weather, and this adds another element of chance to the sport. The coach in making up his team at the beginning of a year must gamble a bit on the kind of weather in which its important games will be played.

Where Stagg Lost.

Minnesota adherents are claiming marked superiority for their team, because it showed the ability to walk away with Chicago under old rules, and to score repeatedly, perhaps, but for the ten yard distance provision. That was true of Saturday's contest, as played, but it also is true that, if the five yard rule had been in force this year, Coach Stagg would have presented a far different eleven than the one he did oppose to the Gophers. He would have built up a team designed to make five yards instead of ten in three downs, and to prevent his opponents making five yards instead of ten. The maroon director gambled on a fast gridiron and lost. He had an eleven which demonstrated its ability to prevent an opponent making ten yards with any regularity, even under conditions favorable to those opponents. He also had an eleven designed to make ten yards instead of five, and the weather man prevented proving whether it could be done under fair conditions.

Not a Championship.

Minnesota's claim to the "championship of the west"—something which was abolished specifically by the faculty conference in which its own representatives were prominent—is being disputed with considerable sarcasm by the adherents of the other leading institutions, particularly Michigan. It is pointed out that one game is not a sufficient basis for the determination of a "championship," and that, until it can be shown Minnesota could beat Michigan and Wisconsin, there is at least a reasonable chance the Wolverines or Badgers could make a better showing against the Gophers than the maroons did, particularly in view of the fact the Gophers could not expect to have three Saturday's provide conditions as exactly suited to them as that of day before yesterday.

Really a 0 to 0 Game.

"It appeared to me," said one Michigan alumnus yesterday, "that the Chicago-Minnesota game really was an 0 to 0 draw. Neither team had a right to score a point. Without belittling Marshall's grand work, there is a decided element of luck in being able to kick a slippery ball between the goal posts in one out of the three attempts from a distance of forty yards or more. And it is certain Chicago was lucky to score its two points—more lucky even than in the game with Michigan last year. Larkin had no such excuse for his error as Clarke had, for Larkin was not hard pressed by any one, the nearest maroon being six or fifteen yards from him, while Clarke had a definite object in view—to run the ball out into the field so Michigan could retain it, instead of having to kick. Clarke would have succeeded, too, but for Catlin's brainy work, which really earned Chicago's two points. But Larkin deliberately made Stagg's men a present of their two this year."

Ten Yard Rule Effective.

Last Saturday's game, it is claimed, proved the comparative ease with which a team of superior strength can be prevented from gaining ten yards except by a resort to extreme open play and tricks. It is argued, therefore, that Michigan or Wisconsin probably could have kept the Gophers from scoring a touchdown as well as Chicago did, and that Minnesota's claims are too diaphanous to be taken seriously outside Minnesota.

But the Gopher adherents will not be deterred by argument or lack of foundation from asserting their team is "western champion." They have said it is, and that settles it in the Twin Cities. All who refuse to admit the justice of that claim and to hail the Gophers as "champions" are actuated wholly by jealousy and unreasonableness, according to the Gopher point of view. It is fortunate for the east that Harvard defeated the Indians, otherwise Minnesota would claim the "championship of the world," in case it can defeat the Indians on Saturday. If the Gophers are fortunate enough to run up a higher score than Harvard's against the redskins that claim could be set up in the Gopher commonwealth. Nor is the friendly University of Chicago in position to dispute the claim.

Chance That Never Came.

One criticism of the maroon team has been heard, and that is because more desperate and hazardous methods were not attempted after the Gophers scored their points, and particularly in the second half, when it had been shown defeat was certain unless the Chicago style of play was changed radically. That is to say, longer chances should have been taken of letting Minnesota score on a fluke for the sake of a chance a lucky break would give Chicago a touchdown.

This criticism does not take account of the fact, however, that there was no time in the game when Minnesota's four points could not have been wiped out by one lucky break which would give Chicago a touchdown, while, if the Gophers scored again through failure of a hazardous trick to work, Chicago would have had to score twice to win. After Larkin's safety even a goal from the field would give Chicago victory. Eckersall was right in playing the game safe and constantly working at top speed for the one opening which would have given any of his backs a clear field. Long runs for them was too fleet, he knew, to be overtaken once that chance was given, but it never came.

Kicking the Vital Factor.

There is the possibility that in another year the coaches will find it necessary to build up two elevens of somewhere nearly equal merits, if possible, the first team to be used on fast gridirons and with fast, tricky, open plays, and the second of greater weight to be used in bad weather, with slower and closer formations. Always, however, the kicking end of the game must be kept most prominent, for by kicking the games can be won more surely than in any other way under the revised rules. The college game now is literally "football" and no longer "pushball," "rushball," or "slugball."

In eleven games which were played on Saturday between actual college and university elevens, eight field goals were kicked and at least two of the games were won by such feats. In those same games only twenty-one touchdowns were scored and one safety. The ratio of field goals to touchdowns in the modern game, therefore, is less than three to one in favor of the touchdown, and that is a marked change from last season.

TAKE DEFEAT PHILOSOPHICALLY

Chicago Gives Minnesota Full Credit and Lauds Resumption of Friendliness—Team in Fine Shape.

Chicago's defeated heroes awoke yesterday in a semi-contented state of mind, glad to have taken defeat from the hands of Minnesota rather than Michigan, and willing to pay respect to the men of the north.

Full credit is given the Gophers for their victory, and never a complaint was heard from any of the maroons about the result of the game. Neither Capt. Eckersall, whose career as a collegian practically terminated with the struggle Saturday, nor Director Stagg, who especially anxious to pay an old debt to Coach Williams, expressed the slightest dissatisfaction over the outcome.

Causes for the defeat were attributed primarily to the wet field and Minnesota's great strength, especially the ability of the Gopher linemen to go down the field on kicks. Stagg had expressed himself fully on the unfortunate condition of the gridiron, after the game Saturday, he said, and he did not wish to refer to it again.

Chicago students took the defeat lightly, due to a certain extent to the small score and the fact this is an off year in football. "A defeat does not come hard this season. Better take it this year than next," said one rooter. This seemed to be the unanimous opinion of the student body.

Friendly relations between Chicago and Minnesota were at a high ebb, and it now is certain the maroons and the Gophers will meet on the gridiron as well as on the diamond, for many annual encounters. Whatever ill feeling existed at the Midway as a result of the Chicago-Minnesota tie game of 1900 was swept away in the mingling of the players and the students.

Hospitality to the visiting players and students on the part of the Chicagoans kindled a new friendship between the two institutions and the game next fall at Minneapolis probably will be a love feast. The "purity" banquet seemed to have had a great part to play in the resumption of relations.

Football at the Midway now has a sunset atmosphere, with only Illinois and Nebraska to look forward to. Illinois could not arouse much enthusiasm, even from Stagg, but the Nebraska contest, he ventured, might prove a good game. He stated the maroons certainly would work hard for both games.

"We must get to work Tuesday," said Stagg, "and make a good showing in these two games. To save our self-respect we must give Illinois a good trouncing and then turn our attention to Nebraska. We might gain a little balm by beating Nebraska worse than Minnesota did, just to prove our superiority. That score of 12 to 0, however, may be hard to surpass.

"Minnesota has a fine team this year and all of us at Chicago will pull for the Gopher team in its game with Carlisle. The Indians are one of the best elevens in the country and if Minnesota wins, the west will fly a fine feather in its cap. And so we are pulling for Michigan in its game with Pennsylvania on Saturday. The injury to Curtis was extremely unfortunate."

Chicago showed little of the new game against Minnesota and the chances are Stagg will not give away any of the plays which he devised to use against the Gophers, but which the condition of the field prevented. Something like forty plays were kept in reserve. Much of Stagg's attention will be directed in the next fortnight toward building up a nucleus for next year. A few experiments may be tried, but the maroon director will not weaken his team any.

With the exception of a few bumps the maroon team is in perfect condition. Work today, however, may be suspended to give the men a rest and prevent overtraining.

ELIOT LIKES NEW FOOTBALL.

Harvard President, Former Opponent of Game, Says It Is Much Improved and Less Brutal.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—President Eliot, the foremost opponent of football under the old rules, was at the Indian game on Saturday and with Dr. Merriman of the athletic committee, a half back ten years ago, watched the play closely. When asked tonight regarding the game President Eliot said:

"I liked the game of Saturday. It was an improvement over the old game, decidedly, but I hope to see it improved more in the future by additional modifications along the same lines as those made this year."

When asked what he thought about the lessening of brutality President Eliot answered: "I think it less brutal."

YALE.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Yale's football players survived the Brown game without a single injury. Brown made no restitution during the game, while Yale's own change was when Capt. Morse slightly turned his ankle and retired in favor of Werneken. It is now certain Rooms, the crippled full back, cannot face Princeton next Saturday in strong form and the proposition is to use the same lineup that met Brown, because Veeder is now punting better than Rooms ever did and Rooms has been out of the game for two weeks. Rooms will try scrimmaging the middle of this week, although he still limps and has not a chance of lasting more than fifteen minutes in a Yale-Princeton clash. Rugged work is ordered for the last two days this week, Tuesday and Wednesday, when the endurances of the varsity will be tested to the extreme by long playing halves.

Penn-Michigan Game Officials.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Officials for the Michigan-Pennsylvania game of next Saturday are announced as follows: Umpire, A. W. Kelly of Princeton; referee, Langford, Trinity; head linesman, D. L. Fults, Brown.

MATCH FOR O'BRIEN AND MOIR.

National Sporting Club Wants Men to Fight in London Early in New Year.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The National Sporting club will offer a purse for a match between O'Brien and Moir for the world's championship. The match is regarded as assured, and the club wishes the fight to take place fairly early next year.

JIM JEFFRIES FAVORS O'BRIEN.

Says Coming Fight Is Hard One to Guess—Neary and Burns Ready for Mill.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—"This O'Brien-Burns fight is a hard one to guess," said Jim Jeffries when asked his opinion of the coming championship fight, "but if they fight straight Queensberry rules O'Brien should win, for he is the better boxer. If Burns plays on O'Brien's stomach much, he should win, for, I understand, O'Brien can't take much punishment there.

"I don't know what the conditions are, but O'Brien has a shade if they break clean, for I think he is the better boxer."

Charlies Neary and Jimmy Burns have wound up their training and both boys are in perfect trim for their battle next Tuesday night before the Pacific Athletic club. The battle is scheduled for twenty rounds, and there will be no question of weight when the boys step into the ring, for Neary is down to weight, while Burns weighs a trifle over 133 pounds.

With weight, height, and reach nearly equal the matter of supremacy resolves itself, according to Abe Attel, into a question of a lucky punch and endurance. "They don't know much about sidestepping and blocking," said Abe. "When Burns it is a chance of planting his punches on the body until the other fellow goes down, and with Neary it is a matter of taking everything with the certainty sooner or later the other fellow will grow tired."

Notes of the Fighters.

"Kid" Farmer, not the "original," and Jimmy Lloyd, advertised as the "Canadian" boxing champion of England, box ten rounds at Peoria tonight. Dick Bates of Cambridge, Mass., writes he would like to meet the winner.

Immediately after Barry's bout with Hugo Kelley, Benny Yanger will leave for Boston, where one week from tomorrow he is billed to fight fifteen rounds with Matty Baldwin. Yanger's eastern match is at 130 pounds at 6 o'clock. His manager, Jack Curley, announces that all of Yanger's future matches will be at 130 pounds or under. He claims Benny can still make 128 pounds with ease.

Accompanied by Manager Tuerill, Sparring Partner Tony Caponi, and a few friends, Hugo Kelley will leave this afternoon for Kalamazoo, where tomorrow night he will fight ten rounds with Dave Barry. Kelley never was in better shape. All of his late fights ended in victories for him by the knockout route, and Kelley confidently expects to continue with his knockout streak. Barry already is on the ground, and is reported down to weight. He has Kid Farmer and a few local men working with him, and says that unless he defeats Kelley decisively he will return to his native country of Ireland. Dr. Hoffman has made up a party which will go to the ringside. They will leave tomorrow afternoon and return to Chicago immediately after the bout. George Siler will referee.

FIELDING FIGURES OF THE NATIONAL.

Chicago Champions Lead the League in Club Batting and Individual Work.

ALL OF THEM NEAR TOP.

Reulbach and Brown Head the Pitchers; Lundgren Fourth, Pfiester Fifth.

Chicago's National league champions led the league in fielding, with the leading shortstop and outfielder of the league, next to the best first and third basemen in actual fielding, and the two champion pitchers of the year. Every regular and substitute on the Chicago team stands near the top, according to the official averages issued from President Pulliam's headquarters yesterday.

McGann of the Giants, for whom Manager McGraw is seeking a substitute next season, led the first basemen with an average of .995, showing that fielding alone is not a demonstration of a player's ability. Chance was second by rights, although Catcher Bowerman of the Giants and Artie Hofman of the Spuds, who played the bag in twenty games, each, have averages one point better than Chance's.

Steinfeldt's Good Year.

Evers ranks fourth of the regular second basemen, with Ritchie of Pittsburg leading them. Steinfeldt is second among the third basemen and first of those who played the entire season at that base.

Tinker leads the short stops by virtue of having played in nearly sixty more games than did McBride of St. Louis, who is tied with Tinker with an average of .944. Wagner of Pittsburg is next to them with an average of .941. Sheckard of Chicago and Thomas of Philadelphia are tied for the lead of the regular outfielders, with averages of .986.

Bowerman of New York leads the catchers, but Kling and Moran are second and third respectively, and Kling caught in more games than any other catcher except Berger of Brooklyn and Doolin of Philadelphia.

Great Showing of Pitchers.

In the pitching department Chicago looms up strongest of all. It has the two champion pitchers of the year in percentage of victories in Reulbach and Brown, both of whom won more than 90 per cent of the games they pitched. Reulbach has the higher average because he won or lost twenty-three games, while Brown won or lost thirty-two.

But the strongest evidence of pitching supremacy is found in the fact the four regular pitchers, who began and finished the season with Chance's team, occupy four of the first five positions in point of effectiveness. But for Sam Leever of Pittsburg, who ranks third, Chicago would have copped the first four positions, as Lundgren is fourth and Pfiester fifth. McGinnity of New York is sixth.

Overall and Taylor, who began the season with Chicago teams and whose work with those teams is included in the records, of course, finished high up in the list. Overall ranked seventh and Taylor eleventh. Beebe, whom Chance traded to St. Louis, is next to Taylor, for whom he was traded, although he pitched only fourteen games for Chicago and twenty for the weak St. Louis outfit.

Brown leads the league in the number of shutouts, with nine of them to his credit. Ritchie of Philadelphia leads in the matter of fielding without an error charged against him. Mathewson is second in fielding, with an average of .991. Beebe of St. Louis leads in the number of strikeouts, with 171.

WE OFFER TODAY an extraordinary opportunity in Men's Fancy Vests which you will do well to heed. We were fortunate enough to secure from one of the highest grade vest makers in America, his entire season end stock of odds and ends and short lines, his season ending just as ours begins

¶ Naturally he made a price concession that made the purchase a very attractive one to us, and we took all the vests there were. They include some of the handsomest patterns of the season, and the variety is practically limitless. They will interest both extreme and conservative dressers, and every vest is an unusual bargain.

¶ The manufacturer intended these vests to retail from $3.00 to $5.00 and they would have sold for these figures had they been bought in the regular way. Considering the concession in price, however, we can afford to offer them at a great deal less than they ordinarily bring.

¶ Take your choice while they last—but come early if you want a great bargain—for only

CASTLE PACER SETS RECORD.

William Mack Clips Three Seconds Off Mississippi Mile Mark, Lowering It to 2:09¼.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Castle's crack pacer, William Mack, which has won on the minor circuits this season, finished his season's campaign in Jackson, Miss., on Saturday by clipping three seconds off the state record, negotiating the mile in 2:09¼. The stable will be shipped to Hilinois for winter retirement at once. Glen Gallant won the Mississippi Derby, and the enthusiasm during the entire meeting was so great that several more stakes are predicted for those who care to break the jump between the northern tracks and the New Orleans winter meetings.

Wishard Quits Racing Game.

New York Nov. 11.—[Special.]—The metropolitan racing season will end at Aqueduct on Thursday, immediately after the last race there will be a hustle for the special train which will leave for Washington. The fall meeting at Benning will be inaugurated on Friday and continue until Dec. 1 when the eastern turf campaign of 1906 will be concluded. Enoch Wishard, one of the best known trainers, practically has quit the game because of poor health. Wishard has handled the horses of John A. Drake both in England and this country and scored many notable successes. But a year ago he became a victim of nervous troubles and soon lost his grip. When he broke decided to quit racing some time ago he decided to induce Wishard to retire, promising him a comfortable homestead in the country.

UNION EYE ON STEEL CITY

LABOR "SUPERVISOR" TO WATCH GARY LABOR SITUATION.

Chicago Building Trades Send Agent to Spy Out Trust Maneuvers Toward Workmen—Will Report on Officials of Corporation—Name Secret, to Preserve Espionage System—Labor Committees to Start Campaign on Town Today.

The new $100,000,000 steel city of Gary, Ind., is the first town in the United States to be provided with a union "supervisor." This is the term applied to an agent of the Associated Building Trades of Chicago, which federation of labor unions is endeavoring to establish a "union wall" about the steel city.

The identity of the "supervisor" is being kept secret, as it is argued that the disclosure of his name would frustrate the system of espionage which he is said to have established already in the Indiana industrial community. His duties, as described by local union officers, consist in spying upon the movements of the workmen in the town, chiefly to learn which are union and which non-union men.

Watch Both Labor and Capital.

The union "supervisor" is also expected to report on the plans of the contractors, dealings of executive officials of the steel trust, and all strategical maneuvers having for their purpose the exclusion of union men and the importation of strike breakers. Once a week he is asked to report to the Associated Building Trades on the status of labor conditions in Gary.

Martin B. Madden, president of the building trades organization, yesterday declared the idea of having a union "supervisor" was one in the labor movement. He asserted that if the experiment proves successful it probably will be adopted by other unions. He will be chiefly in that a "supervisor" may oversee a large contract upon which a dozen or more different trades are employed, thus expediting the function of the "business agent," who is limited in authority.

Plan Action Against Gary.

The union campaign against Gary will take an active turn tomorrow, it is expected, when committees from Chicago, Hammond, and South Chicago unions meet at the latter place to draw up plans for a concerted movement against the steel town.

It is said the union officials have discovered enemies of the steel "trust" in Chicago who are busily engaged in hiring hundreds of nonunion workmen to begin operations at Gary in the spring. One contractor is said to have been offered 10 cents a head for every laborer he can furnish to the steel corporation between now and next March.

Store Drivers Declare for Peace.

All danger of trouble with the department store drivers passed when the men met at 63 Randolph street and indorsed reports of committees who, during the last week, called upon employers. It was said conditions have been adjusted satisfactorily to the drivers.

UNION LABEL IS MISSING FROM FRENCH KID GLOVES.

Woman Worker Declares Deception Is Practiced to Make Customers Believe the Articles Are Imported.

"Trade Unions in Politics" was the subject scheduled for the monthly meeting of the Women's Trade Union league at Hull house yesterday afternoon, but the speakers decided at once to include other things more dear to the feminine heart. Miss Agnes Nestor of the glove workers' union aroused interest in a talk on French kid gloves and the places to buy gloves with the union label.

"We have tried to get the union shops to put the label on the so-called French kid glove," said Miss Nestor, in a burst of candor, "but they won't do it. They say the gloves are supposed to be imported, and that the presence of the label would show their domestic manufacture."

Mrs. Charles Henrotin, national president of the league, spoke of the progress of women in England, where, owing to the presence of some forty-five laborites in parliament, the women workers are able to get investigations on anything they please.

"Our investigations here don't do much good," she said. "The Illinois officials make an investigation and then carefully bottle its results up for their annual report. By the time public interest has died out and the work gets no public attention and does no good. Those things ought to be given publicity when interest is keenest."

It was said afterwards that Mrs. Henrotin referred to the action of the state labor bureau in bottling up the reports made by Miss Sophronisba Breckenridge and Mrs. Harriet Vandervaart regarding the wages of women and girls in the stockyards.

TO EXPLAIN STENSLAND NOTES.

Officers of Steel Ball Company Will Tell Really All They Know About Alleged Spurious Notes.

Officers of the Steel Ball company, it was announced yesterday, will make a public statement concerning their relations with Paul O. Stensland, formerly president of the defunct Milwaukee Avenue State bank.

"The State's Attorney Healy and the grand jury have concluded their investigation.

"All I care to say at this time," said Morris Rosenthal, attorney for the Steel Ball company, yesterday, "is that the affairs of the company were conducted honestly. Its officers never threatened Mr. Stensland in an endeavor to secure money to carry on their business. They borrowed money from him, as they did from other bankers."

CHICAGO IDEAS SOUGHT FOR WORLD'S FAIR AT SEATTLE.

Representative of Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition Is Here Consulting Promoters of the Columbian Show.

Considering the Chicago Columbian exposition of 1893 a criterion of what a world's fair ought to be, Gen. James B. Metcalf of Seattle, Wash., a representative of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition to be opened in 1909 in Seattle is here getting pointers on how to launch a world's fair.

"I find the progress of the western coast country in the last few years has grown beyond the apprehension of you 'easterners,'" said Gen. Metcalf last evening at the Palmer house. "The opening of Alaska that has poured a stream of $120,000,000 of gold down across the Pacific into the Seattle assayer's office has made a marvelous growth out there."

Gen. Metcalf says the Seattle business men raised $700,000 cash to promote the fair. The fair will represent an outlay of approximately $10,000,000. It will occupy 250 acres bordering on Lake Washington. The gate will open June 1, 1909.

"Nearly every state in the union, Illinois among them, has promised to erect a state building," said Gen. Metcalf. "It seems like an exaggeration maybe, but the intention is to eclipse all previous attempts at world's fairs. The Chicago fair was ideal from many viewpoints and apparently was on a sound business basis. We want to learn by Chicago's experience."

LAY CORNER STONE OF CHURCH.

5,000 Lithuanians Parade at Dedication of Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of Vilna.

Five thousand Lithuanians in gala array, with banners and flags, paraded yesterday afternoon from Twentieth and Robey streets to 123 West Twenty-third place, the scene of the laying of the corner stone of the Roman Catholic church of Our Lady of Vilna. The services, which began at 3:30 o'clock, were witnessed by 12,000 people.

Father Sarafinas of Kensington made the address of the occasion and the Rt. Rev. Peter J. Muldoon blessed and laid the corner stone.

An Early Clearance Sale 500 Trimmed and Ready-to-wear Hats

Marked at exactly half their previous selling prices.

It is early in the season to offer such an unusual opportunity—too early but for our established policy of keeping our assortments up to the highest standard at all times.

The Hats included in this "one-half price sale" have been on display in our cases. Some have been used as models for reproductions and in consequence are slightly marred by displaying or handling.

Other Hats are perfect but belong to lines that are broken or which we have decided to discontinue.

Still others are included because of changing fashions or color ideas which bring them below the most critical standard of excellence maintained here.

An inspection is earnestly solicited in the belief that the hats possess sufficient merit to recommend them, while the price reductions class them as most extraordinary bargains.

Fourth Floor.

Women's, Misses' and Children's Ready-to-wear Hats reduced to prices ranging from $1.25 to $3.00.
